What Will Marin Do If Hippies Overflow?

Will hippies swarm to Inverness this summer? If so, is Inverness ready?

These were the basic questions in a session called by Rev. Francis W. Read, Vicar of St. Columbia's Episcopal Church, at the church last night where 50 persons, including several county officials, discussed the questions.

Read, who has met with hippy leaders in San Francisco where 100,000 are expected this summer, said that 10 to 15 per cent of these will probably come to Marin and Inverness already seemed to be a selected spot.

He and others agreed that there was not enough housing in the area and unless special provisions were made there was no place for campers.

County Sanitarian William Desmond said it will be the policy of San Francisco health officials "to roust these hippies."

He said that unless special latrines, fresh water and possibly field kitchens arer provided there will be serious trouble in some areas of Marin and the possibility of epidemics.

Deputy District Attorney Josh Thomas wondered why it was a responsibility to provide facilities which only encourage more hippies to come to Marin.

Rev. John Weaver, metropolitan planner for the Episcopal Archdiocese of California, advised against taking sides and putting up signs trying to keep hippies out of any community. "You have to roll with the punch," he said.

Other problems discussed included fire hazards, health and law enforcement.

A few in the crowd asked how hippies could be kept out but most agreed that this was impossible and something which should never be attempted.

"I hope we never see the day when we are able to control people's movements," Under Sheriff Sydney Stinson said.

All agreed that the vistors to the Point Reyes National Seashore already put a serious traffic strain on the community and on Inverness single public restroom. Some said hippies themselves were the greater problem.

Syria War Chief Poised For Order To Invade Israel

Thant Warns United Nations Situation Most 'Menacing'

CAIRO (UPI) — Syria today said its armed forces are ready to begin "liberation" operations against Israel. The Arab nation said it had taken into consideration the possibility of "interference" by the U.S. 6th Fleet.

Syrian Defense Minister Maj. Gen. Hafez el Hassad was quoted by the official government newspaper Al-Thawra (revolution) as saying:

"We are awaiting the go-ahead signal from the political command."

"There is unanimity in the Syrian army . . . to speed up the battle," he added.

El Assad said: "We have taken into consideration the possibility of American 6th Fleet interference."

The fleet is based in the Mediterranean, reportedly within 24 hours sailing time of the Middle East crisis zone.

Egyptian armed forces also were massing along the frontier with Israel, moving in to take over positions held for more than 10 years by the United Nations Emergency Force (UNEF). Secretary General Thant ordered the peacekeeping force withdrawn yesterday at the request of the UAR government.

Today, Thant told the U.N. Security Council in New York in a written report that the situation in the Middle East was "more menacing" than at any time since the Suez invasion in 1956. He blamed the crisis on the Arab El Fatah terrorists and "inflammatory" statements by Israel leaders.

Iraq and Jordan also have placed their armed forces on virtual war footing and other Arab nations have pledged support to Syria against any Israeli aggression. Algerian government sources said Algeria pledged its 40,000-man Army in the event of an Israeli attack.

El Assad, who is also air force commander, was quoted as saying all preparations for war with the Israelis were completed.

He said Syrian aircraft had flown over Israeli positions on reconnaissance missions and had been fired on by American-built Hawk missiles and anti-aircraft guns.

Syrian armed forces, El Assad said, stand ready "not only to repel Israeli aggression but to start the liberation operation itself and blow up the Zionist preence in the Arab nation of Palestine."

As El Assad asserted Syria's willingness to pitch into war his foreign minister, Ibrahim Makhous, accused the United States Central Intelligence Agency of responsibility for the Middle East crisis.

Makhous told the Cairo newspaper Akhbar El Yuom that a recent meeting of American diplomats in Beirut, Lebanon was actually a gather-

Both Sides Paying Toll In Air War

Fierce Ground Battles Raging In Buffer Zone

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. planes dueled with Communist MIGs over North Vietnam for the second straight day today and American pilots reported they shot down five, and probably a sixth.

The sky warfare raged as about 10,000 U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese troops were heavily engaged by North Vietnamese in the demilitarized zone separating North and South Vietnam.

The swirling dogfight, in which American pilots made their second big MIG kill in two days, occurred during a raid on a truck repair facility eight miles north of the North Vietnamese capital of Hanoi, the U.S. Command said.

This brought to 69 the total of MIGs downed over North Vietnam. There was no report immediately of any U.S. plane losses.

Yesterday, American pilots reported shooting down four MIGs, and possibly a fifth, and destroying two on the ground as seven U.S. planes were downed by intense antiaircraft fire in a raid on Hanoi, the North Vietnamese capital.

Aground the fighting centered in the demilitarized zone, with the Americans determined to root out the North Vietnamese. The allied forces had formed a line along the Ben Hai River, which divides North from South Vietnam in the middle of the zone. U.S. Marines were under intense mortar and artillery fire and South Vietnamese troopers on their left flank were engaged in fierce jungle fighting.

The allied troops have reported killing 232 Communist troops. U.S. Marines have lost 36 dead and 290 wounded and a South Vietnamese spokesman said government troops took light casualties.

U.S. spokesmen announced that heavy raids over the North yesterday cost seven planes—four lost in dogfights with MIGs and three hit by ground fire. The biggest loss in a single day was eight last Dec. 2. Total losses over the North now are 552 U.S. planes.

The U.S. raids included the closest strike yet to the center of Hanoi. The target was an

Next Welfare Check Likely To Be Short

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — California's 1.3 million persons on welfare may not receive their full checks next month unless Congress passes a $25 million supplemental appropriation.

Spencer Williams, director of the State Health and Welfare Agencies, said yesterday the federal government has "overextended" itself and may not be able to finance its 50 per cent share of California's welfare program.

Williams told newsmen he believed the bill was tied up in the House and if it isn't passed "within the next four or five days" every person receiving public assistance from the state will be affected.

Williams said he "could not conceive" of the government not appropriating the funds. He added, however, "the federal government has never come this close in the past."

When such problems have arisen in the past years, California has advanced the money to the government. But due to a "serious financial deicit in the budget," Williams said, the state is unable to come up with the money this year.

Westerners Roughed By Hong Kong Mobs

HONG KONG (UPI)—Communist gangs roamed through Hong Kong's tourist center today, demanding American and British flags be removed, roughing up Westerners and swarming into the Suzy Wong bar district catering to U.S. sailors on leave from Vietnam.

In a dramatic appearance at the 25-story Hilton Hotel at dusk, about 100 Red Guard-type Chinese demanded the doorman take down the rooftop American flag. They cheered as the banner came down, although a hotel official told them it always was taken down at that time.

UPI cameraman Marvin Farkas spotted dozens of teenage Chinese pushing and hitting a Westerner. Others reported more such incidents as the anti-British rioting picked up an anti-American flavor in the Communist campaign to humble this British Crown colony.

A Red Guard - type band shouted "Yankee-Go-Home" slogans outside the U.S Consulate.

DMZ Actions Draw Mixed Reactions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration's explanation that a U.S. troop sweep into the South Vietnam demilitarized zone is a defensive move failed to halt criticism that the war is being escalated.

A State Department statement yesterday that the ground thrust was aimed at countering a Communist military buildup and was in no way an invasion of North Vietnam won backing from supporters of President

Flying Doctors Repeat Lindbergh's Journey

PARIS (AP) — Two American doctors who left New York in a single-engine plane yesterday to try to duplicate Charles A. Lindbergh's historic flight to Paris 40 years ago, landed near the French capital today less than 20 hours after takeoff, airport officials said.

The officials said Dr. Francis Sommer, 54, of Barbourville, Ky., and Dr. John Rieger, 45, of Los Gatos, Calif., arrived at Cormeilwe Airport, a short distance northwest of Paris, at 8:45 a.m. They had left New York 20 hours before, at 8:49 a.m. EDT Friday.

The doctors had headed for Le Bourget Airport where Lindbergh landed in 1927. They were directed to the Cormeille Airport because of the heavy activity at Bourget due to next week's air show.

Lindbergh made the flight in 33 hours, 29 minutes, 30 seconds.

Quentin Slaying Lacks Suspects

San Quentin Prison had no suspects today in the fatal stabbing of inmate Ernest Boles, who died yesterday during surgery.

A long metal rod found outside the South Block where Boles was fatally wounded Thursday night may be the weapon, said Associate Warden James W. L. Park.

Boles, 24, convicted burglar from Shasta County, apparently was drunk on illicit liquor when stabbed in the stomach, Park said. He died in the prison hospital shortly before 1 p.m. yesterday.

The stabbing was the prison's third in four days.

No More Booms

Air Force exercises such as those causing the giant sonic boom at 1:56 a.m. yesterday will not be repeated for another three months, Hamilton Air Force Base spokesmen said today.

License Fees Hike Would Help Transit

Marin Transit District would receive about $450,000 a year from an increase in state vehicle license fees proposed in Sacramento yesterday by Assemblyman John F. Foran as an amendment to an earlier bill.

The San Francisco Democrat, chairman of the transportation committee, proposed raising the vehicle fee from 2 per cent to 2.5 per cent of market value of the vehicle. The increase would produce another $50 million a year statewide.

The money would be earmarked for transit systems, streets and highways. Bay Area Rapid Transit District would receive $6 million a year and San Mateo County's West Bay Rapid Transit District would get $1.5 million a year.

DETROIT (UPI) — The handwriting was on the wall today for potential new car buyers—the 1968 models will cost more.

Top-flight executives of three of the four major American car manufacturers have predicted "substantial" price increases with the advent of 1968 models, and blamed the higher prices on government standards for safety and air pollution and wage demands.

Antarctic Perils Showing Space Pioneers How To Cut Fire Risk

GREENBELT, Md. (AP) — Scientists at Antarctica found fire can be such a hazard in remote exploration that a top U.S. space official suggests moon explorers should take along duplicate sets of materials required for life.

Dr. Wernher von Braun, director of the Marshall Space Flight Center, Huntsville, Ala., told a National Aeronautics and Space Administration audience yesterday: "It was a great surprise to learn in Antarctica that the greatest single danger is fire.

"The hazard of a remote station being gutted by fire while a blizzard rages outside is a constant worry," he said.

"Fire could destroy a station in 10 minutes, and along with it the blankets, food, radio and fuel that are needed for survival."

He said a solution developed in Antarctica is fall-back camps — small extra camps 300 feet or so away from the main station, equipped with a duplicate set of all vital materials required to support life — radio, reserve blankets, fuel, food and water.

These reserve camps can support human beings for 10 to 14 days, he said.

"This would be a good idea for exploration on the moon or for application to a space station circling the earth," Von Braun said.

Fire potential in these areas is of course limited to structures or equipment containing or held in oxygen—required for burning.

Von Braun, Dr. Robert Gilruth, director of the Manned Spacecraft Center at Houston,

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Dodd Delay May Quash Censure

WASHINGTON (AP) — The three-week delay in Senate action on a resolution to censure Sen. Thomas J. Dodd is expected to bring increasing pressures to exonerate him of misconduct charges.

Senate leaders had stated the resolution to be taken up next Monday agreed reluctantly to the postponement and obviously were angered by the 11th-hour request for a delay, to June 13. However it was evident they did not want Dodd to be put in the position of a martyr denied adequate time to prepare his defense.

Some Senate sources said they think a conservative group that has formed a committee to oppose censure wants time to mount a campaign depicting Dodd as a dedicated anti-Communist.

It's just a group of my friends trying to help me and I hope they can," Dodd said when newsmen asked him about it.

Ky Faces Race For Top Post

SAIGON (AP) — Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu has decided to oppose Premier Nguyen Cao Ky for the presidency in the September elections, a spokesman for Thieu said today.

The move could badly undermine the unity of South Vietnam's military just at a time when Communist pressure is soaring.

Thieu

The ruling military junta in an informal note last Sunday had given its backing to Ky 40-2. This represented a switch from the 27 votes Thieu won in an earlier straw poll compared to Ky's 15 to 20.

Ky said he would have to talk to Thieu before he could comment. Earlier Ky had said he would withdraw from the presidential race if Thieu decided to run.

Orbital Lab Building Ordered

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Air Force has awarded more than $855 million in contracts to continue development of a $2.2 billion Manned Orbiting Laboratry, the first of which now is due for a 1970 launching.

Present plans call for seven launchings, five of them manned by two crewmen who will be able to work up to 30 days in space in their shirt sleeves.

Douglas Aircraft received a $674,703,744 contract yestedlay for the 41foot, 19,000-pound laboratory. McDonnell Aircraft Corp., St Louis, received a $180,469,000 award to build the Gemini capsule that will haul the laboratory after both are launched from a giant Titan 3C rocket.

Britons Ban Beatle Record

LONDON (AP)— The British Broadcasting Corp. has banned the radio and television broadcasting of a song from the Beatles' new record on the ground that it "could encourage a permissive attitude to drug taking."

The song, "A Day in the Life," on the long-playing record "Sergeant Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band," is the first Beatles number banned by BBC.

In the song, John Lennon and Paul McCartney tell of catching a bus, having smoke and going off into a dream.

CIA Woos Students

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Central Intelligence Agency is trying to hire the best students in American colleges and universities, a former CIA director says.

Retired Vice Adm. William F. Raborn Jr., who headed the agency in 1965 and 1966, told the College Federal Council for Southern California yesterday:

"The CIA is recruiting the cream of the crop in U.S. colleges and universities and they should not be ashamed that they work in a difficult area."

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A Molotov cocktail was thrown against a stairwell door at George Washington High School yesterday while students were at lunch. There was only slight damage.

Trains' Fate Bleak

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—The long distance passenger train is dead, according to the president of the Southern Pacific Railway.

B. F. Biaggini of Southern Pacific yesterday told a Transportation Week audience that demands to keep passenger trains running were a drag on industry efforts to hold down freight rates and to combat boxcar shortages.

He said the loss on passenger traffic to the industry last year was $400 million.

Biaggini said that 99 per cent of today's travelers either want the speed of a jet plane or the flexibility of their own automobile in taking a long trip.

Space Shot Planned

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A U.S. rocket will carry a European space satellite into orbit May 29 or 31.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said it will launch the 163-pound Esro II satellite from the western test range in California.

The satellite was developed by the European space research program, whose members are Belgium, Denmark, France, West Germany, Italy, the Netherlands, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland and England.

PORT CHICAGO (UPI)—Residents of Port Chicago are considering incorporating to stop the Navy's plans to move the 300-member Contra Costa County community lock, stock and barrel.

The Navy wants the community to move so it can establish a safety buffer zone against possible explosions at an ammo storage station.

Desalt Plant Set

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson has signed a bill providing for construction of the first nuclear-powered desalinization plant in Southern California.

The plant, which will be built on a 40-acre man-made island off Bolsa Chica, will convert 150 million gallons of sea water into fresh water daily.

Storm Rakes Burma

RANGOON, Burma (AP) — A storm that has battered Burma's southwestern coast for 48 hours destroyed 800 villages, and left more than 100,000 persons homeless.

At least six persons were killed and 16 are listed as missing in first reports from the disaster area.

Mother, Four Children Perish In Home Fire

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) A smouldering fire in a rumpus room exploded suddenly into flames early today, killing a mother and her four children.

Police and firemen were forced to hold back Bernard Crotty, whose wife and children were killed, from dashing into the inferno and making a rescue attempt which would have meant certain death.

Crotty, superintendent of the San Francisco Bureau of Street Cleaning, arrived home from a banquet almost simultaneously with the fire trucks. Flames had already engulfed the house and the heat was so intense that the windows exploded.

Dead were Mrs. Pauline Crotty, 39; Katherine, 12; John, 10; Julia, 9; and Margaret, 8.

Mrs. Crotty's body was found in a third floor bedroom, a telephone clutched in her hands. Her children were found in their bedrooms or in the hallways.

The home, located in a fashionable San Francisco neighborhood, was a blackened hulk. Damage was estimated at $50,000.

Parolee Who Killed Ex-Wife Slays Bride

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—An ex-convict who served time for killing an ex-wife in Vallejo was held today on charges he fatally shot his bride of five months and a sailor.

Homicide inspectors said John Watson, 37, kliled his wife Betty, 32, and Fireman 2/c Johnny Worthy, 23, yesterday morning when he found her in the sailor's hotel room.

Watson, who was paroled in 1965 after being convicted of killing an ex-wife in 1960, was booked on suspicion of murder.

Worthy staggered from the King Hotel on Third Street and fell dead in a barber shop. He had two wounds in his chest.

Mrs. Watson's body was found in a hall on the fourth floor.

Police said he shot his wife four times. She was killed instantly.

Worthy was attached to the USS Horn.

The council voted to hold the contest anyway.

Russ Finally Ratify Space Peace Treaty

MOSCOW (UPI) — After a delay of nearly four months, the Soviet parliament Friday ratified a treaty banning nuclear weapons from outer space, the first major East-West agreement since the 1963 Test Ban Treaty.

The U.S. Senate ratified the same treaty shortly after it was signed in Moscow Jan. 27 by representatives of the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union. Dozens of other nations signed later.

The treaty prohibits nuclear weapons in orbit or in space and places the moon, planets and other celestial bodies off limits for military bases.

The four-month delay between Soviet signing and ratification had created fears the Kremlin was holding up the historic treaty because of the Vietnam war.

Those fears were put to rest with an announcement from the official news agency Tass that the presidium (executive body) of the Supreme Soviet (parliament) had ratified the treaty.

The action cleared the way for Soviet ratification of another U.S.-Soviet treaty—the consular convention.

That pact, also ratified earlier this year by the U.S. Senate, would establish Soviet and American consulates outside the capitals of Washington and Moscow and provide protection for Americans arrested in the Soviet Union or Russians arrested in the United States.

Presbyterian Church Has More Money, Less Flock

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — United Presbyterians have more capital funds than ever before — but somewhat fewer people.

A report to the denomination's Governing Assembly yesterday disclosed that the largest single fund drive undertaken by the church — its "Fifty Million Fund" campaign — had exceeded its goal, raising $59,694,273.

At the same time, worry was expressed about a 10,039 decline in adult membership in the last year, bringing the total down to 3,298,583. It was the first net loss in the church's recent history.

"We should not be surprised or dismayed," said William P. Thompson, of Philadelphia, the church's chief administrator, noting that other denominations also have experienced slight drops for the first time in many years.

The statistical report also showed slight drops in ministerial candidates, church school enrollment and baptism—but total contributions were up by more than $12 million to nearly $330 million.

Thompson also voiced gratification at a U.S. Defense Department ruling that a phrase in the church's proposed new confession of faith would not jeopardize the security clearance of Presbyterians in classified government jobs.

"It is, of course, pleasing," he said. "We would not want any member of the church supjected to problems as a result of his working for the church."

He pointed out, however, the church did not request the government approval, and that church positions could not be conditioned by such rulings.

Some Presbyterians on defense or military jobs had been advised previously by lower-echelon legal officers that their security clearances might be put in doubt by a phrase in the confession, avowing work for peace "even at risk to national security."

Spiders Chase Illinois Pupils

CHARLESTON, Ill. (UPI)—School's out for students at the Eastern Illinois University Grade and Junior High School because of a bunch of spiders.

The spiders, known as brown recluses, common in the Ozark mountains but rarely seen this far north, recently took up residence in the school's heating ducts. Classes had been scheduled to run through Wednesday.

"Early dismissal of school this quarter will enable a professional extermination firm to promptly begin a treatment program so that summer quarter classes can start on schedule," said Don Gill, the principal.

Hungary Flies Top Officials To Defector

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two Hungarian officials were flying in from Budapest today for a secret meeting with former Charge D'Affaires Janos Radvanyi, who defected earlier this week.

The Hungarian government apparently wants to satisfy itself that no coercion was involved in Radvanyi's decision to seek asylum in the United States.

U.S. officials confirmed that a meeting between Radvanyi and two special envoys from Budapest has been arranged for an unspecified time in a secret location.

Radvanyi, 44, who was the top Hungarian diplomat in the United States, said yesterday his reasons for giving up his post were "very personal."

He said in a statement distributed by the State Department that he decided he could not in "good conscience" remain the "representative of the Hungarian government to the American people."

Radvanyi said he wished to bow out of public life and hoped his action would not strain United States-Hungarian relations.

State Pleads For Freeway Funds Spurned By City

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A delegation from the Senate Transportation Committee is scheduled to go to Washington, D.C., in an effort to get a rescinded allocation of $250 million in federal highway funds restored.

Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, the committee chairman, said yesterday the sum was withdrawn from California's allocation of federal funds and distributed to other states after San Francisco officials rejected a freeway routing proposal.

Collier said the delegation will attempt to get the money restored for other California projects, including the Century Freeway in Los Angeles County.

Park Board Says Maybe To Dogs, No To Liquor

YOSEMITE (AP) — The jury is still out on whether dogs will be allowed to camp overnight, with their owners, in California parks and beaches, but the mail's running 2-1 in their favor.

That was the report yesterday at the State Parks Commission meeting at Yosemite National Park from William Penn Mott Jr., state parks and recreation director.

He recommended the dogs be allowed for a trial period of one year, but the commission postponed decision until their next meeting, so guidelines can be developed.

The dogs presently are banned from overnighting in a continuing dispute being waged between the dog lovers and the sleep lovers.

But commissioners did make a decision on whether to allow another item — liquor — to be sold at state facilities and came up with a qualified "no." They established policy stating the sale of liquor generally was to be deemed incompatible with state park use.

Prisons Get A New Chief

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Reagan has appointed a career corrections expert, who started as a prison guard, as the new chief of the California Department of Corrections.

Ray Procunier, 43, was appointed to the $24,000-a-year post Friday to succeed Walter Dunbar, who has headed the department since 1961. Dunbar is reported taking a federal post after 26 years with the department.

Procunier has been superintendent of the Deuel Vocational Institution at Tracy, a correctional facility for young adults. He says he has no political party affiliation. He joined the department as a guard at the Chino prison in 1948.

Take Anything But My Uniform

HASTINGS, England (UPI)—British Railways took away station master Angus Audsley's uniform last year and no one pays attention to his orders any more.

"They think I'm just a passenger," said Audsley. "It's even worse in the freight yard. No one will take orders from a man in a lounge suit."

A sympathetic conference of Transport Workers voted yesterday to ask British Railways to give Audsley back his uniform.

Makhous said the alleged agents approved "the importance of getting rid of the revolutionary regimes in the Middle East, foremost among them those of Cairo and Damascus."

Assessor Bribe Suspect Seized

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Oscar William Brothers, a tax consultant and former state official, was taken into custody last night by the FBI on a warrant charging unlawful flight to Mexico to avoid prosecution for perjury and bribery.

Brothers, 48, is charged with 14 counts of perjury and one of bribery in Alameda County.

Brothers, recently a tax consultant for several large California businesses, is accused of bribing the Alameda County assessor in connection with property assessments and reporting false figures regarding the business firms to the assessor.

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate Elections and Reapportionment Committee has approved a proposed constitutional amendment that would make state Board of Education positions elective rather than appointees of the governor.

The measure by Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, would establish a board of 101 members who would select the state superintendent of public instruction. The superintendent now is elected.

two forces would make price hikes inevitable.

Roche made his comments on the price hike at a GM stockholders meeting.

American Motors chairman Roy D. Chapin was quoted in Los Angeles by Dow Jones, the financial news organization, as saying there would be substantial price hikes, most of which would be due to safety improvements.

Like Ford, Roche refused to set a dollar figure on the anticipated price hike. He said it was too early because the company did not know all of its cost factors yet, particularly the size of increase that would be won by the United Auto Workers in the contract talks with the industry this summer.

Some industry sources, however, have estimated that the cost of the new safety standards, plus addition of the new exhaust emission control devices, would run to around $100 per car, exclusive of any contract gains won by the UAW.

electric power plant 1.1 miles from the heart of the North Vietnamese capital. Other pilots blasted Communist forces in the demilitarized zone.

The allied line along the Ben Hai, and a sweep north by another 5,000 U.S. Marines from outposts just south of the zone, were intended to trap North Vietnamese units possibly taken by surprise by the sea and helicopter landing deep in the zone.

Allied forces invaded the southern half of the zone for the first time Thursday. Although the zone is supposed to be neutral territory extending about three miles on each side of the border, the United States described the action as a defensive measure against the buildup of North Vietnamese forces there.

On the left flank coming up Highway 1, about 1,000 South Vietnamese airborne troops were trying to cut through a strong North Vietnamese force.

Two Communist battalions totaling about 1,000 men attacked South Vietnamese troops a few miles south of the zone, near Quang Tri City, capital of the South's northernmost province.

The zone sweep is aimed at rooting out entrenched enemy troops, supplies and heavy guns that have been harassing U.S. Marine outposts in recent weeks. Similarly well-entrenched guns in the northern sector of the zone were blasting the sweep force.

The zone battlefield ranges from scrub and sand dunes along the coast to lush paddy fields further inland and woods and tangled jungles as the foothills begin just west of the Ben Hai bridge about 15 miles inland.

Asked if allied troops would cross the Ben Hai into the northern sector of the DMZ, South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Cao Ky told newsmen: "Not at the present time."

Answering another question, Ky said he did not know how long the joint force would remain in the buffer zone. "A few more months perhaps," he said.

STELLAR MYSTERY

Scientists Puzzle Over Sky Pulses

By Advance Service

WASHINGTON — Astronomers are wrestling with a new mystery: What makes quasars pulsate almost like lighthouses at the edge of the universe with the brightest light known to man?

Quasars are star-like masses in that, cosmically speaking, they are quite small and extremely hot. Several are only 20 to 30 times larger than our solar system.

Yet they generate a fantastic amount of light — a light now estimated to be 100 times brighter than the Milky Way, a galaxy containing billions of stars.

So far there is no explanation of how a quasar, with a core only a fraction the size of a galaxy, can produce so much light. There isn't even a clue. Nor is there any idea of what makes them vary dramatically in brightness.

The discovery that some quasars fluctuate rapidly in brightness was made recently by Dr. J. B. Oke, an astronomy prefessor at California Institute of Technology. Oke used a photoelectric device hooked up to the 200-inch Palomar Observatory telescope to survey several of the more than 200 presently known quasars.

He found that one — named 3C-279 — increases or decreases in brightness by 25 per cent in a 24-hour period. From this fluctuatoin he was able to arrive at an approximate size of the quasar.

The arithmatic was keyed to the fact that light travels at a 186,000 miles per second. A "light day" — the distance that light travels in 24 hours — is 16 billion miles, or about twice the diameter of our solar system.

The 25 per cent variation in brightness during one light day leads Oke to deduce that quasar 3C-279 is about 160 billion to 240 billion miles across. That is just the white hot nucleus; the quasar is also surrounded by huge, glowing cloud of gas.

In the cosmic scheme of things, an object 240 billion miles in diameter is a mere fly speck. The Milky Way, in which our solar system revolves, is two and one-half million times bigger. And, what is more, astronomers estimate there are about one billion galaxies like the Milky Way.

There is a belief shared by many astronomers that quasars may be like fence posts, marking the outer perimeter of the universe. Many appear to be the most distant objects it is possible to observe. So it is thought that by plotting their location the quasars will reveal the size and shape of the universe.

This work is now in progress. But it is expected to take a long time to complete, and even then there may be no firm answer to that old puzzler, whether the universe is in a "steady state" or was created by a "big bang" and is constantly expanding.

The quasars are billions of trillions of miles away from Earth — so distant that no one will ever be able to visit them. They are so far away, in fact, that their intense brilliance only registers as a faint point of light on the mirror of the giant Mount Palomar telescope.

This means that scientists can study them only by analyzing the light electronically, a tedious process fraught with the possibility of error.

But, they are there and so is the mystery of their brilliant, pulsating light. It is the urge to solve the mystery that presently is supplying much of the scientific impetus to build orbiting telescopes at a cost of several hundred million dollars over the next few years.

From space, away from the Earth's murky atmosphere, the viewing would be much clearer. But it is still a gamble. The distance is so huge there is no guarantee a space telescope will make a quasar give up its secrets. The chances ,indeed, may be against it.

Peking Official Claimed Urging More Vietnams

CHICAGO (AP) — Foreign Minister Chen Yi of Red China is quoted as saying that the world needed "not just one Vietnam, but three or four. And we will get them."

The statement was reported by Simon Malley, a reporter for the French language newspaper, Jeune Afrique, and other African papers. He told of his interview in Peking with Chen Yi in a copyright article yesterday in the Chicago Daily News.

Maley quoted Chen Yi as saying the other Vietnams which Red China seeks will be in Africa, Asia and Latin America.

Chen Yi was quoted as saying, "The Russians have surrendered to American nuclear blackmail. The Soviet revisionists now fear that continued revolutionary pressure might lead the United States to resort to international war."

Malley said Premier Chou En-lai told him: "We have always maintained that revolution cannot be imported. It must rely first of all on itself, on the mobilization and politicalization of its own people. No outsider can make your revolution."

Malley also reported that Chou said revolutionary leaders believe "that American imperialism and Soviet revisionism are helping each other for the sake of the Soviet-American scheme of world domination."

Red China officials have denied that Malley talked to Chou and other high leaders and have termed the reports of the American-born U.N. correspondent a "fabrication." Daily News officials have said their investigation led them to believe the reports are correct.

"'I know, comrade,' replied the diner, 'but how can we get them to eat here?'"

Johnson's war policies.

But senatorial critics of the course Johnson is pursuing voiced fears that the war is being intensified to the point where an invasion of the North could be the next step. In their minds this would trigger Chinese intervention and could lead to World War III.

The administration has said that at this point American troops are operating only in South Vietnam's section of the demilitarized zone, which extends three miles on either side of the border. But they have not finally ruled out the possibility of a form of hot pursuit of the enemy across the 17th Parallel dividing line.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., who recently proposed restricting the bombing of North Vietnam, said although the action might be justified from a military viewpoint because of Communist violation of the DMZ, "it's an escalation."

"Any stepping up of the war will make it more difficult to find a peaceful settlement," he said. "Any escalation enlarges the possibility of Red China's intervention. I hope the President will de-escalate the war."

Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa, a Johnson policy backer who has visited Vietnam, said in a separate interview: "I'm only surprised that it didn't happen a long time ago."

"It is definitely not a change in policy with respect to an invasion of North Vietnam," he said. "It is an appropriate response to the enemy's violations of the neutrality of the DMZ."

Miller, who won Senate confirmation Friday as a Reserve brigadier general, supported the contention of Robert J. McCloskey, State Department press officer, that the Marine-South Vietnamese ground action was a search and destroy operation to counter a buildup in North Vietnamese forces.

Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., of the House Armed Services Committee, applauded the action. "Thank God," he said, "somebody's got guts enough to do something."

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., who opposed the move, said it is logical to expect it may be followed by ground action carrying the fight across the border of North Vietnam.

"I can't see that that would be much different from bombing in the Hanoi area, although I oppose both," he said.

Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee characterized the move as a "widening of the war, the escalation of the fighting."

"This is just another indication of the rising momentum of fighting which apparently is going to be intensified day by day unless some drastic action is taken to halt it," Fulbright said.

However, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, who opposes broadening the war, did not regard it as the kind of escalation he hopes will not take place.

"Our troops have gone only to the doorstep of North Vietnam," he said. "They are operating south of the 17th Parallel in South Vietnam territory. This is not escalation but it is an extreme intensification of the fighting."

Center, Teachers In Accord On Talks

PLEASANTON (AP) — Litton Industries and the American Federation of Teachers have agreed to talk terms for a union organizing election among instructors at the Parks Job Corps Center, Charles Overholt, acting manager of community affairs at the center, reported yesterday.

Red Guards Battle 100,000 Workers

HONG KONG (UPI) — Peking wall posters today said rebellious troops and a mob of 100,000 workers battled forces supporting Communist leader Mao Tse-tung in Red China's industrial heartland.

The posters said the battle pitched the 100,000 workers backed by heavily armed troops against 60,000 Maoist Red Guards in the Manchurian city of Chihsi. They indicated the Maoists were driven out in a bloody rout.

Douglas Gives Two Reprieves In U.C. Sit-In

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two reprieves have been given 565 persons convicted of trespassing and resisting arrest in the 1964 overnight sit-in at the University of California administration building.

Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas gave the first reprieve yesterday, staying the execution of sentences to June 14 so those of the group who were students could take their final examinations.

Then, Berkeley Municipal Court Judge Floyd Talbott extended the stay to June 20 after defense attorneys said they were worried that the Supreme Court would not get to the appeal until its last scheduled session June 19.

If the high Court should decide to hear the case after its summer break, the stay in sentence would remain in effect until it finally ruled. Friday was the day for the 565 to start surrendering to the Berkeley court. The group includes Mario Savio.

Fairfax Seniors Hope To Form

About 40 persons met in Fairfax yesterday and agreed they wanted to form a senior citizen's group — the first of its kind in the city.

New officers elected were: John O'Connell, president; Walter Berta, vice president; Mrs. Mary Wilkens, treasurer; and Mrs. Leah Jarrett of 51 Park Road, secretary.

Timely Rescue In Hot Desert

NELLIS AIR FORCE BASE, Nev. (AP)— A chance motorcycle trip in a remote desert area by an Air Force helicopter pilot probably saved the life of a California woman.

Lt. Jerry Briscoe spotted Mrs. Angus F. Greene, 70, walking on a little-used utility road, about five miles northeast of the Nellis Air Force Base firing range, yesterday.

She was seeking aid after her car broke down on a desert trail, in 116 degree heat.

THE MONEY DRESS

LOS ANGELES: A miniskirt, yes, but it's also a "money-skirt," the latest in paper dresses glued together from real money, and priced at $750 including the "material." A girl could snip off an inch or two to make the down-payment. Model Jeanine Bartlett wears the dress as Judity Brewer, the designer, makes last-minute adjustments near the vault of a bank. The dress was purportedly inspired by a new film, "For A Few Dollars More" and an optional accessory is a bank guard for an escort.

American Woman In Europe Is Known As Worst Dressed

By EUNICE FARMER

Last year you wrote a very helpful column on your wardrobe for your trip to Europe. I have saved them and have been restudying them because I am planning a similar trip myself. Please let us know if your wardrobe was satisfactory and give us any further suggestions on packing.

MRS. E.M.B.

DEAR MRS. E.M.B.:

This is the season when many women of all ages will be wondering about what to take on their first visit to Europe. I will have suggestions for you the next several weeks and would welcome any letters from you readers that we chould all share. Please write to me immediately and tell me any of the little tips you have found helpful.

First, may I say that the average American woman has the reputation of being the poorest dressed in Europe. I wanted to be just as well-dressed away from home as I am at home and the thought of taking one or two dark cottons that are drip-dry left me cold. I would suggest adding plenty of color to your wardrobe. It's just as easy to rinse out a colorful drip-dry as a dark one, and it adds plenty to your morale.

Be prepared for any kind of weather, from the very hottest to the very coldest and most especially, the wettest. No matter where you go you will find that they are having "very unusual weather and it hasn't happened in X number of years!"

I took one wool coat and also a hand-screened colorful cotton coat which I had sprayed to make it water-repellent. This was invaluable because it served as a raincoat and also a light weight, all-weather coat. Because it was my very own pattern and fabric, it never got mixed up with the many, many coats that were identical.

I would also recommend a large selection of the very long chiffon scarfs in many colors. These can be tied around the handle of your purse for a color accent and also come in very handy throughout the day.

Some churches you will visit require a woman's arms to be covered, others your head. In either case, the scarf can save the day for you. It might be windy or you might suddenly get chilled and this scarf can do double duty for you. It adds a bright note to your ensemble!

Next week I shall discuss packing details and further wardrobe hints.

Please send your questions and sewing tips to Eunice Farmer, in care of the Independent-Journal.

Farewell, Dance And Welco Parties Are On The Calendar

By MOLLY MARIN

Planning a move to San Francisco over the Memorial Day weekend are the Walter M. Bairds of San Rafael who have resided 22 years in Marin. Walter and Jane, who is a past president of the Marin Symphony Guild, have purchased a home on Montclair Terrace. Walter is a partner in Price-Waterhouse in San Francisco. Moving into the Baird home in San Rafael are the Francis Whislers and their four children from San Francisco. Jane will be honored at a farewell luncheon next week in the Belvedere home of Mrs. Ralph Dewey and Allen L. Oddie of San Rafael has planned a farewell and welcome cocktail party for the Bairds and the Whislers. Mrs. Whisler is an architect in San Francisco.

AMONG THOSE entertaining before the Sausalito Woman's Club's international dinner-dance tonight are the Robert M. Gunns, who have invited a few friends to join them for cocktails, and the George W. Quinns Jr., who will have several couples as guests.

MRS. NORMAN P. TROPF of Santa Rosa, formerly of Novato, was honored at a luncheon and card party Thursday at Peacock Restaurant in Novato. The Tropfs recently moved to Santa Rosa and 24 of her Novato friends attended the party.

JUST BACK from a fabulous trip to Mexico are Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Kilgore of Tiburon and their children "Tersh", 13, and Bee, 11. In Mexico City they were the guests of Dr. and Senora Luis Gomez-Correa. Bee went to classes at the convent which the host's daughter attends. A special performance of the Orquesta Feminal, composed of Mexican girls 8-18 years of age, was given in honor of the Kilgore children. At La Morena, Gene and "Tersh" tried their skill at bull-fighting, with special bulls selected for them. They went from Mexico City to Merida in Yucatan, where the governor entertained their party at a reception at the governor's palace. They saw the famed Pyramids of Yucatan, and attended a fiesta folklorico at Hacienda Chenku near Merida. They were also entertained at Itzlancab, the factory established in the early 1700s where rope is manufactured from cactus. Here they were guests to what Mimi Kilgore called "A Mexican Luau," where the piece de resistance was pig roasted in a pit. After their visit in Yucatan, they went to the island of Cozumel on the Caribbean for a few days of fishing and exploring the historic island. This is pirate country and many Spanish galleons were sunk nearby.

DR. KILGORE participated in the first Inter-American Seminar on Hand Surgery with Dr. William Littler and Dr. Robert Beasley of New York. The course will be given in Latin America annually, probably in various countries. Next trip for the Kilgores, who love the Latin American countries, will be to Venezuela.

THE DONALD KIMBALLS of San Rafael have returned from a trip to Hawaii where they were guests at the Hilton Hawaiian Village on Waikiki Beach.

OVERWHELMED with the friendliness of American families is Barbara Wing of London, who will be staying in Mill Valley for the next three weeks with the John Finns III. A speaker at last week's luncheon of the Richardson Bay Association of Girls Scouts in Marin, Miss Wing is one of 20 participants in the San Francisco International Program for Youth Leaders and Social Workers. A graduate of Edinburgh University, Miss Wing received a medical social worker degree from the Institute of Medical Social Workers at the University of London. This summer she will be working at the Children's Hospital of the East Bay in Oakland. In her own country she is well known as a leader in Girl Guides, which she says are almost the same as Girl Scouts in this country.

MRS. THOMAS WELSH of Kentfield will honor Mrs. Francis Fogarty of Greenbrae at a luncheon and swim party in her home on Tuesday. Present will be Mesdames F. Marvin Plake of San Francisco, M. W. Sibley and J. E. Wade of Hillsborough, J. C. Fulton and J. U. Angwin of Piedmont and Jack Deeds of Santa Rosa. Members of the group will be delegates from the Bay Area at the Pi Beta Phi convention to be held in Chicago next month.

THE FRANCIS H. GRIFFINS of Sausalito will also entertain at a 7 p.m. cocktail party preceding tonight's international dinner-dance of the Sausalito Woman's Club. Their guests will be Dr. and Mrs. Frank E. Rossman and Messrs. and Mesdames George Chapman, Perry Brock, Alan Conner and Jack R. Lehmhuhl.

IT'S FATED ON THE MOUNTAIN

"Kismet on the Mountain," the 1967 version of the famed Tamalpais Mountain Play, will have its final performance at 2 p.m. tomorrow in Cushing Memorial Amphitheater on the mountainside. The play is director Dan Totheroh's adaptation of Edward Knoblock's play "Kismet" (fate). A huge throng attended the first performance last Sunday. (Independent-Journal photo)

Black Muslim Paid Tribute

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Several thousand Negro students skipped classes at Los Angeles area high schools yesterday in honor of the birthday of slain Black Nationalist Leader Malcolm X.

A spokesman for the Board of Education said absences at high schools in the predominately Negro south-central area of the city ranged from 20 to 30 per cent, double the normal rate.

At Compton High School about 1,300 of the 2,500 students enrolled either left classes or did not show up.

Police arrested two field workers for the black nationalist group US as they handed out leaflets at Fremont High School. The handbills urged students to boycott classes and "go to a picnic in Griffith Park."

Malcolm X was assassinated in New York on Feb. 21, 1965.

OPTIMIST — Price Hall, San Rafael public relations man, was elected today as Lt. Governor of Optimist International's Zone 7, comprising Mendocino, Napa, Sonoma and Marin counties, at the Optimists' Pacific Central District convention in Santa Rosa. The convention, attended by 600 delegates, ends tomorrow.

Long-Drawn 'Love Book' Trial Nears Conclusion

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A jury of 10 women and two men will hear final arguments Monday in the trial of three booksellers charged with selling "The Love Book."

The defense rested its case yesterday in the obscenity trial of clerks at the Psychedelic Shop and the City Lights Bookstore.

Dr. J. M. Stubblebine, chief of the San Francisco Mental Health Services, was the final defense witness yesterday. He said treatment of love and sex by Lenore Kandel in her poem was "a step in the right direction."

Defense witnesses included clergymen, doctors and other authorities.

Ruled out as experts were newspaper columnist Art Hoppe and Mrs. Margaret Krebs, a high school teacher.

Budget Problems

A list of programs that may be cut because of a lack of funds next fiscal year will be considered by Mill Valley School District trustees Monday at 8 p.m. in the district office, 26 Miller Avenue. Also on the agenda is review of the preliminary general purpose budget totaling $2.1 million for fiscal 1968.

SCHOOL CONVENTION — Roy C. Knechtle, custodian at Strawberry Point School in Mill Valley, will represent non-teaching employees of the district at the California School Employees Association's convention Aug. 1-4 in Los Angeles.

TO GRADUATE — Jody Prothro, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert King Prothro of 167 Lucas Park Drive, San Rafael, will receive the B.A. degree from Huntingdon College, Montgomery, Ala., on May 29.

Diplomats Elect

Officers for Drake Diplomats at Sir Francis Drake High School were recently elected for the last quarter of this year and the first quarter of next year. Juniors Joan Diamond, Francy Kuizenga, and Lora Hein are president, vice president, and secretary. Risa Reyes, a freshman, is treasurer.

Terra Linda Hooky Stunt Faces Official Discipline

Disciplinary action has been promised 200 Terra Linda High School seniors who played hooky en masse Tthursday. They spent all day on the beach at Drake's Bay instead of being in class.

What form the disciplinary action will take, Mrs. Margaret Rattray, dean of students, was unable to say yesterday. "We will come to a decision by Monday," she said.

"This was a gross violation of school regulations and we want parents to know it was not a picnic organized by the school."

Mrs. Rattray said she did not know why the students — 10 per cent of the student body — left en masse.

"Perhaps they thought it would be a good day to spend on the beach and there would be safety in numbers," she said.

Whatever action is taken by the school authorities, she thought it unlikely the students would be prevented from graduating if they complete the work necessary.

"We can't really force a student to come back for another year for taking one day off," she said. "Nevertheless, they broke school regulations and should be prepared to face the consequences."

She said some students over 18 were under the impression the regulations did not apply to them and had told their parents so.

"If a student decides to stay on at school until graduation, exactly the same rules govern him as the rest of the school," she said.

By tradition, high schools in the San Rafael district are allowed to give students the last day of the school year off for such things as picnics. This year, that day is June 16.

"One of the problems is that some of the over 18's want that day now," said Mrs. Rattray.

Property Owners To See Lawmakers

Fifty members of Marin Property Owners Association will meet in Sacramento Tuesday to discuss legislative proposals with Senator John F. McCarthy and Assemblyman William T. Bagley.

Meeting for lunch in the Senator Hotel, the group will ask for property tax relief and legislation on assessments of rural lands in keeping with agricultural use, according to Melvin Rupp, association manager.

10—Help Wanted

ARE YOU A SALES MANAGER?

If so, does your company, your product, and your territory enable you to make a lot of money? If not, read my open letter below.

ARE YOU A TOP SALESMAN WHO WOULD LIKE TO BE A MANAGER?

If so, you, too, should read my open letter below.

Did you know that most people never find out what they're worth in the business world? An employer never evaluates how much money a man is worth. He decides how much he is willing to pay to get a job done. The job is evaluated, the man is not. The jobs I offer are man-evaluation, with more take home money as a reward. Here is my story: In home field, exhibit, military and reload. I have openings for men in EVERY county in Northern California and in Nevada. The best jobs in the subscription book industry. They would entail handling some of the most famous products in the world including the new teaching machine. Experience in our field helpful but not required. A weekly average salesman sells 2 of our orders per week. When he works hard, he sells 3 or 4. He earns $87 per order, take home pay, plus profit sharing bonus.

We have NO HOLD-BACKS—NO RESERVES —NO CHARGE-BACKS OF COMMISSION OR OVERWRITES.

and THE COMPANY PAYS ALL EXPENSES and a weekly draw against commission.

A manager on this new deal makes over $500 per week, take home, if he:

Has 10 orders a week from his salesmen and writes 2 personal orders. That kind of production is very mediocre. If you were reasonably successful and had 24 orders per week from 10-12 salesmen, & produced 3 personal orders, your take home pay would be over $1,000 per week.

If you are the RIGHT man, if you have a FIRE burning inside you, if you want to be SOMEBODY, we probably have a territory available for you.

Please write me, c/o Grolier Society Inc., 1537 Bayshore Highway, Burlingame, Calif. or call collect weekdays, 692-3522; evenings and Sundays, 349-3911.

ALL REPLIES IN STRICT CONFIDENCE

Sincerely,
Charles "Chic" Webster

HOW FAR CAN YOU TRUST A USED VW?

About as far as you can trust a new one . . .

when it's had our 16-point Safety and Performance Inspection. That's why we can guarantee 100 PER CENT the repair or replacement of all major mechanical parts for 30 DAYS OR 1,000 MILES. Of course, not every used VW gets this inspection. Only VW's sold by authorized dealers like us.

— Engine — transmission — rear axle — front axle assemblies — brake system — electrical system.

MUSIC MAKERS — Three Dixie School District teachers rehearsed yesterday for Monday's "Blow-in" at Vallecito School. That's Ruthe Wilder on the trombone, Virginia Jones with the tuba and Vicky Bailey at the drums.

Dixie Teachers Ready For 'Blow-In' Concert

Twenty-four stellar music pupils — all of them teachers in Dixie School District — will demonstrate their hard-won skills Monday at a "blow-in" at Vallecito School.

The free public concert at 4 p.m. will be the final session of a two-year course of study launched by the teachers, all of them beginners, so that they in turn could teach Dixie students to play instruments.

IDEA COPIED

Their effort was part of the district's "block music program" originated by Dixie — and now widely copied throughout the United States — as a means of broadening elementary school students exposure to music. The block program also includes choral music, general music appreciation and a string orchestral program.

Dixie Music Director Joseph S. Curatilo yesterday gave a statistic of success. At Dixie's two seventh and eighth grade schools, where music courses are elective, 52 per cent of the students take some form of music instruction. The nationwide average, said Curatilo, is 16 per cent at that grade level.

Curatilo gives his 24 teacher-pupils, who will perform Monday excellent marks both for very high achievement and perfect attendance.

Last school year they met every Thursday from 8 to 10:30 p.m., this year on Mondays from 3:30 to 5:15 p.m.

INSTANT TEACHING

Each began teaching the instrument of his choice almost immediately on starting to learn because, as Curatilo explained, "there was an awful lot of music interest on the children's part but not enough money to pay music specialists."

When they started, the teachers were only about three lessons ahead of the youngsters. Now, because adults learn faster, they are way ahead of their charges and even ready to perform in concert, said Curatilo.

The music director did not reveal the program, but said it was geared to the performers' ability at their level of learning. "Next year, maybe it will be Bach," he said.

VARIED TALENTS

The roster of instruments, however, was impressive, including the clarinet, base clarinet, flute, trumpet, trombone, tuba, drums, cello and base violin.

They were among $4,000 worth of new instruments given the district by Sherman Clay's San Rafael store to help launch the program, Curatilo said.

Among the 24 teachers from the seven K-6 schools are two principals, Keith E. Anderson of Nova Albion S.CHOOL, who has mastered the flute, and William Van Winkle of Lucas Valley School, now a trumpet player.

Curatilo expressed the hope yesterday that many of his charges will qualigy to play with the Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District Non-Marching Band.

"They will be auditioned," he said.

Tomales High To Graduate 41 Seniors

A class of 41 seniors will be graduated from Tomales Joint High School in commencement exercises at 8:30 p.m., June 15, at the gymnasium, according to Supt. Anthony Matulich.

Katherine Adams will be valedictorian of the class, Kris Echenroad the salutatorian. Jack Rickley will deliver the senior class address.

A member of the board of trustees, yet to be named, will present diplomas to the students. A reception will follow innediately in the gymnasium.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Most Esophagus Disorders Have Origin In The Stomach

VAN DELLEN

The esophagus (gullet) is a muscular canal approximately 17 inches long. It's function in swallowing usually is overlooked unless it becomes inflamed or obstructed. The structure is more than an ordinary tube that conveys food and secretions from throat to stomach. It contains a series of circular muscles that constrict in perfect unison to propel solids and liquids into the stomach.

The timing is so perfect that when a piece of steak reaches the lower end of the tube, the door of the stomach (sphincter) opens automatically and allows the meat to enter. When the valve fails to open because it is too tense or is not synchronized with esophageal contractions, the individual feels as though something is lodged in the throat.

MOST DISORDERS of the esophagus originate in the stomach. When the muscles of this organ go into reverse, acid coming from the gastric pouch irritates the lining of the gullet. Dyspepsia and heartburn develop with slight reverse contractions but if they are stronger, fluids may regurgitate into the mouth. The inflamed membranes may ulcerate and, after healing, there may be residual scarring which shrinks the membranes and narrows the gullet.

Now and then complete obstruction occurs, first for solids and then for liquids. Since vomiting is a causative factor in esophagitis, there may be associated diseases of the digestive tract.

Trouble along this line may arise also when the esophagus is too short and pulls a portion of the stomach through the diaphragm into the chest.

ESOPHAGITIS IS treated with antacids and by the elimination of the causative factors. Additional irritation is avoided by restricting the diet to liquids and semi-solid foods.

When residual scarring remains, dilatation of the opening may be necessary to prevent obstruction. Occasionally surgery is needed, praticularly if firm adhesions are present and hiatus hernia coexists.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

ORIGIN OF CANCER

H. C. M. writes: What kind of cancer is adenocarcinoma?

REPLY

Cancers are named after the type of tissue from which they originate. Adenocarcinomas stem from cells that make up the various glandular structures throughout the body, including those that manufacture sweat, milk, gastric juices, mucus, and thyroxin. Such tumors may grow in the thyroid, breast, stomach, bowel, or any organ that contains glands.

DISSATISFIED FOOT

A. V. wrties: Why is it that when I lace a shoestring on one shoe tighter than the other, the other foot isn't satisfied?

REPLY

This has me baffled, too, but you might be able to solve the problem by not letting the right foot know what the left foot is doing.

CURETTAGE

Mrs. B. writes: Is curettage done for anthing besides miscarriage?

REPLY

Yes. It is done as a diagnostic procedure to determine the cause of abnormal bleeding. The technique also is done to induce abortion or after a miscarriage that is incomplete.

FALSE TERM

Z. M. writes: Can pseudo-angina be cured?

REPLY

The term pseudo-angina is one of my pet peeves because an individual has or does not have angina. Perhaps you ought to ask your physician what part the pseudo is playing in producing the chest pain.

Today's Health Hint —High blood pressure can cause dizziness.

Hippie Spirit Group Loses In College Election

Tradition won out in a runoff student election at College of Marin yesterday, which also produced an upset in the campaign for student body vice president.

The Ousley Blues, a hippie group competing with a traditional group, the Mainsails, for college yell leaders for the fall semester, lost 366 to 509.

The runoff was scheduled after the election Monday and Tuesday appeared to settle all but the yell leaders race, but a recount of ballots Wednesday showed that a runoff would also be required in the campaign between John Bamberger and Joe Jeremy for vice president.

Bamberger was announced winner before the recount, but yesterday's runoff election went to Jeremy, 456 to 386.

Two More Candidates For Seniors' Honors

Santa Venetia Senior Citizens have nominated one of their members for honor as Marin "Outstanding Senior Citizen of 1967."

The Easter Seal Society of Marin has nominated its founder.

They are among candidates for the award to be presented at a luncheon honoring the elderly residents next Thursday at Hamilton Air Force Base as a climax to "Senior Citizen Month."

RETIRED TEACHER

A retired school teacher who has been an active worker on behalf of retired persons, Mrs. Nettie Shaver, is the nominee of Santa Venetia Senior Citizens.

Mrs. Shaver, of 630 Vendola Drive, has been a resident of Marin for 64 of her 84 years.

A native of Ceres, near Modesto, she was a member of the first graduating class of San Francisco State Normal School, now San Francisco State College.

She taught all eight grades in a Contra Costa County school for two years, then became a teacher at Black Point, and moved to San Rafael in 1903.

SECOND STINT

After marriage to Raymond Shaver, a member of a pioneer San Rafael family, she became a housewife. She returned to teaching in 1930 and taught seventh and eighth grades at Fairfax School for 16 years retiring in 1946.

She joined the Marin branch of the Retired Teachers Association in 1959 and served as president in 1960-61. She received a citation at the national convention of the association in 1964 for her "contribution to the enrichment of retirement living."

Santa Venetia Senior Citizens reported that Mrs. Shaver has helped less able senior citizens in rest homes and "never turns down a chance to help the seniors."

SOCIETY FOUNDER

The Easter Seal Society of Marin has selected its founder, Mrs. Dare Morgan, as its nominee.

Mrs. Morgan, 79, of 40 Ross Avenue, Apt. 6, San Anselmo, a 60-year resident of Marin, has been on the society's board since it was started in 1939 and is now corresponding secretary. She has served as a volunteer in the office at least once a week during all the years of the society's existence.

Mrs. Morgan paved the way for formation of the society, formerly known as the California Society for Crippled Children. She is writing a history of the society.

She became interested in handicapped children in 1926 when there were no programs for children unable to attend regular schools.

After the society was formed, it sponsored a summer class for handicapped children at Wade Thomas School in San Anselmo, then called Main School, and a similar class was started in Mill Valley.

HELPED SCHOOL

Mrs. Morgan worked on a drive to establish a temporary school at Marin General Hospital. Within a few years, the attendance increase required a permanent school and the Marindale School was established in Terra Linda.

Mrs. Morgan is a life member of the Califonia Congress of Parents and Teachers and a charter member of the National Council of Catholic Women of Marin.

Tiburon Opens Street Job Bids

A. J. Bresnan Co. of San Rafael and Rice, De Martini, Smith, Inc. of Novato were low bidderrs yesterday on two Tiburon street improvement jobs.

Contracts are to be awarded by the city council at its meeting at 8 p.m. Monday.

The same three companies bid on both jobs, with Ghilotti Brothers of San Rafael losing out in both cases.

Rice, De Martini, Smith was low at $3,821.65 on work on Trestle Glen Boulevard, Jefferson Court, Washington Court, Irving Court and Seafirth Road. Bresnan bid $4,147.50 and Ghilotti, $4,803. City Engineer Ray W. Foreaker's estimate was $3,804.

On resurfacing Paradise Drive, Bresnan was low at $6,086.10, Ghilotti Brothers bid $6,187.70, and Rice, De Martini, Smith, $6,794.75. The city engineer's estimate was $6,530.

Suspect Hears Holdup Charge

Brian Moore, 29, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on a charge of armed robbery of a San Rafael bartender.

Plea entry is at 1:30 p.m. Monday.

Moore, of 1551 Fourth Street, San Rafael, is accused of robbing at knifepoint Jack Carney, employee at Dave's Lounge in San Rafael, as Carney was making a night box deposit at a bank May 12.

Moore, arrested minutes later, attempted suicide at county jail and was taken to Napa State Hospital. He was returned yesterday for the arrraignment.

Hearings Waved On Bogus Checks

Maurice Lewis Margolis, 58, waived preliminary hearings on two charges of passing worthless checks yesterday in Marin Municipal Court.

Judge Peter Allen Smith certified the cases to Marin Superior Court.

Margolis, of 155 Nova Albion Way, San Rafael, allegedly passed three bad checks totaling $121 in San Rafael April 12-24, and four checks totaling $155 in the Tiburon area Jan. 10-27.

U. S. Golf Team Wins Cup

SANDWICH, England (AP) — The veteran Bill Campbell of Huntington, West Va., and Bob Dickson of Muskogee, Okla., scored singles victories today that halted a strong comeback by the British and gave U.S. amateur golfers the Walker Cup for the 19th time in 21 meetings.

(Ron Cerrudo of San Rafael halved his afternoon singles match with Great Britain's Rodney Foster. Cerrudo and Bob Murphy lost their doubles round this morning.)

Campbell, 44-year-old former U.S. champion who captained the American cup team in 1955, figured in his fourth point without a loss when he defeated Ronnie Shade, the British ace, 3 and 2.

The tall Princeton University graduate had won both his singles and foursome matches yesterday and teamed with 19-year-old Jack Lewis of Florence, S.C., for the lone American foursome triumph in four matches this morning. They beat Sandy Saddler and Sandy Pire, 1 up.

The British, behind 8-1 after yesterday's matches, continued their stirring rally in the singles during the afternoon but Campbell beat Shade in the match that assured a tie and Dickson scored the clinching point, beating Alex Pirie, 4 and 3.

Britain's only victory in the series, starting in 1921, was scored at St. Andrews, Scotland, in 1938. The 1965 match at Baltimore ended in a tie.

The British, who seemed hopelessly beaten, fought back to win three of the four foursome matches and then stepped off to a strong start in the singles.

In the foursomes, Tom Craddock and Mike Bonallack defeated U.S. amateur Bob Murphy of Gainesville, Fla., and Cerrudo 2 up; Shade and 19-year-old Peter Oosterhuis won over Downing Gray of Pensacola, Fla., and Ed Tutwiler of Indianapolis, 3 and 1, and Rodney Foster and Dudley Millensted topped Don Allen of Rochester, N.Y., and Marty Fleckman of Port Arthur, Tex., 2 and 1.

In the singles, Campbell reeled off five straight threes—includng an eagle at the seventh—on the front nine to turn 2 up. At the 493-yard seventh, he put his second shot almost stone dead for a 3. At the ninth, his approach was two feet from the cup.

The British rallied in the other matches.

Craddock, a 35-year-old Irishman, beat Lewis, 5 and 4. Sandy Saddler won over Downing Gray, 3 and 2, and Bonnallack, three times British amateur champion, turned back the cigar smoking Murphy, former U.S. Amateur champion, 4 and 2.

Franks All Smiles

HOUSTON (UPI) — Manager Herman Franks of the San Francisco Gaints was out $100 today, but he still had plenty to smile about.

A surprising pitching change paid off and a pair of his slumping stars roared back into top form last night as the Giants polished off Houston 6-2. The Giants send ace Juan Marichal (6-3) against Dave Giusti (0-4) in tonight's Astrodome rematch.

Franks lost the $100 when the league office fined him for a shoving match with umpire Shag Crawford in Thursday's tussle.

National League president Warren Giles said he did not suspend the portly Giants skipper only because Crawford shoved back.

After learning of the fine, things went a lot better for Herman last night. In the first inning, lefty Ray Sadecki wobbled just a bit and Franks immediately brought in right-hander Bob Bolin, who hurled the rest of the way.

Bolin has not been sharp this year, but flashed his best form yet in tossing six-hit ball to run his record to 3-4.

Meanwhile, Willie McCovey, who also has had his troubles, pushed his average well over .200 with three of the Giants' 14 hits. It's guys like Bolin and McCovey who have to get going if the Giants want to climb into the thick of the pennant race.

The Giants pushed in front 2-1 in the fourth when Willie Mays, Jim Hart and McCovey rapped hits, but Houston tied it in the sixth.

The Giants finally broke it open in the eighth when Tom Haller and McCovey banged homers. McCovey's bounced back onto the field and when Crawford called it a round-tripper, he promptly found himself in the middle of another hassle. But this time it was Houston putting up the squawk.

Hal Lanier's double and Haller's triple knocked in the final two Giant counters.

Sports Extravaganza Honors Great Stars

The Helms Athletic Foundation has undertaken a most ambitious project—selection of the world's greatest living athletes and bringing them tegether June 24 a Beverly Hills in the "greatest sports extravaganza ever staged."

Willie Mays just received a telegram from Jerome Feig, president of the foundation, advising him that he had been selected by sports writers and announcers of America to represent baseball as its greatest living athlete.

ERNIE NEVERS

"We extend this most cordial invitation to you to be our honored guest . . . to receive the Sportsmen's World Award with the following great athletes:

"Greta Anderson, Denmark; Elgin Baylor, Los Angeles; Georges Carpentier, France; Tom Harmon, football; Louis Meyer, Jr., auto racing; Duke Kahanamoku, Hawaii; Ernie Nevers (of Tiburon), football; Paavo Nurmi, Finland; Joe Louis, boxing; Ralph Guldahl, golf; Pat McCormick, diving; Johnny Longden, horse racing; May Sutton Bundy, tennis; Red Kelley, hockey; Rafer Johnson, track; Bob Mathis, track; Rick Barry, San Francisco Warriors."

Helen Wills Belongs On The List

Perhaps that is just a tentative list. But how can any sports writer or announcer overlook Helen Wills in tennis? She lives quietly now in Carmel but still plays an admirable game as anyone at the Pebble Beach Tennis Club will testify.

Perhaps all of the sports writers and announcers polled by the Helms Athletic Foundation are youngsters and never heard of Helen Wills. But surely in boxing they must have heard of Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney or Bobby Jones, golf's only grand slammer, or Wilt Chamberlain, George Mikan, Bill Russell, Bob Cousey and other basketball greats.

The list as it now stands also omits great ones in all of the other sports but then that always is the danger of such an ambitious project.

How Can They Omit Musial, DiMag?

Nobody will ever convince St. Louis baseball fans that Stan Musial shouldn't be on the list of New York fans that the list is complete without Joe DiMaggio.

But Willie Mays is a most deserved candidate to represent baseball at the gathering. His name has become synonymous now with baseball just as Babe Ruth's was in another generation.

And Mays should find no difficulty in accepting the invitation because during the weekend of June 24 the Giants will be playing a three-game series in Los Angeles with the Dodgers.

Giants Turn Back Marin Catholic

By GARY TISCHLER

A lot of people have called Redwood shortstop Ken Johnson the best ballplayer in the Marin County Athletic League.

Yesterday, on Redwood's sun-drenched baseball field, he showed them why.

Johnson pulled three superplays out of his talented hat, and teamed up with Kevin Wilson to lead the Giants to a 3-1 victory over Brian King and Marin Catholic, giving them at least a share of the loop title.

The Marin Wildcats will have to beat San Rafael in Greenbrae next Tuesday to get their piece of the crown. Redwood has finished the season at 8-4 while the Wildcats are 7-4 with one to go. A win by Marin Catholic would result in a playoff at San Rafael's Albert Field Wednesday at 8 p.m.

It was a beautiful day for baseball, with an overflow crowd packing the field, but for King, Wildcat shortstop Harry Matsinger and Marin Catholic in general it might as well have been raining hard.

King, despite a week's rest, was anything but the scourge of the MCAL. The lefthander gave up only four hits, but he also gave his fielders plenty of work while striking out only two.

He did not exactly help himself. He made three errors in the sixth, all in one inning, all involving speedsters Larry Blackwell who eventually scored on a hit. Blackwell got on when King muffed his bouncer, advanced to second on the wild throw to first, went to third on a wild pickoff attempt and scored on Wilson's single.

Matsinger almost matched King in the disastrous and controversial fourth inning that gave Redwood its winning run.

The sophomore shortstop muffed two fielding chances, both of them with double play painted on them, with the last letting in a run. In the meantime, pinch hitter Vic Salinas had lofted a pop fly to King, which King dropped. King got the runner at third but the play was protested by Marin Catholic which argued that it should have been an infield fly, automatically erasing the runner at first for a double play.

The first Redwood run came when Jack Fitzhenry whipped a solid, long triple and pinch

Harris Next In Line For Crack At Cokes

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Curtis Cokes successfully defended his world's welterweight championship against Frenchman Francois Pavilla then said he had an agreement to fight Gypsy Joe Harris in July "if the money is right."

Cokes beat Pavilla on a technical knockout in the 10th round last night but the finish was confusing since the referee Pat Riley said he actually awarded the verdict to Cokes because a Pavilla backer leaped into the ring and not because Pavilla was in no condition to continue.

But there was no question of Cokes' superiority and Riley was of the opinion that Cokes would have won anyway had the fight gone on.

Moreover, the fight was a financial bust with only 2,870 persons paying $23,100 — about $40,000 less than the cost of staging it—and leaving Kenneth Hayles, promoter for the Greater Dallas Sports Association, as confused as the versions of the fight's finish.

Hayles had predicted $100,000 from 10,000 persons and said he had been told there was almost $40,000 in ticket sales the day before the fight.

Harris appeared on the supporting card in flaming red trunks and put on quite a show as he gained a technical knockout over Benny Bowser, the Texas middleweight champion. He had been told he could have a title fight with the Cokes-Pavilla winner.

Cokes said he had agreed to it "but of course the terms must be right."

Harris didn't appear to be doing very well against Bowser, who knocked him down in the first round and was leading on points until he suffered a severe cut in the corner of his left eye in the third.

IN TROUBLE

In the fourth Harris had Bowser in trouble but he managed to weather the flurry. However, he was unable to come out for the fifth round and Harris got the victory on a technical knockout to remain undefeated in 20 fights.

The Cokes-Pavilla fight was

San Rafael's Braves Nip Lodi By 5-4

The San Rafael Braves, with Ben Trujillo hurling hitless and scoreless relief ball, nicked the Lodi Wine Guild, 5-4, with a hit-and-run double scoring the winning run last night at Lodi.

Trujillo took over for starter Ben Wakefield, who was shelled in a four-run sixth by Lodi. He mopped up the last three innings with seven-strikeout pitching to give the Braves their fourth win against one loss.

First baseman Neil McNevin had three hits, including a two-run homer and drove in four runs for the Braves.

San Rafael hosts Flying Goose of San Francisco in a doubleheader at Albert Field at noon tomorrow.

Left-handers Bob DeRosa and Ron Gilliam will be on the mound for the Braves.

Hurls No-Hitter

Kevin Brink hurled a no-hitter to lead the Realtors to an 11-1 victory over the Lions in the Mill Valley National Little League Thursday.

Stockton Surprises Texas Golf Tourney

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Dave Stockton, somewhat stunned by an unexpected four stroke lead in the National Invitation, resumed his battle today with the Colonial Golf Club course.

"I guess I really shocked a lot of people," the slender Californian, 25, said yesterday after trimming four strokes from par 70. "It shocked me."

The 66, coupled with Thursday's record-equaling 65, gave him a 36-hole total of 131, four strokes ahead of power hitter Tom Weiskopf.

COMFORTABLE EDGE

Weiskopf slammed out a 65 yesterday for 135 and a comfortable two-stroke edge over Homero Blancas, alone in third place at 138.

Blancas was one of a record 15 contestants to break par.

One stroke back at 139 were Ben Hogan, Gardner Dickinson, Rocky Thompson, Deane Beman and Bobby Nichols. Both Nichols and Hogan, with opening 67s, slipped to 72s.

Beman, making an auspicious debut as a pro, shot a 68, as did Thompson. Dickinson had a 67. Tommy Aaron and George Archer shared the next slot with even par 140s.

Stockton again turned to his putter for help, faltering midway through the round, and once again it responded somewhat miraculously.

CLUTCH PUTTING

He shot a three-under-par 32 on the front nine, sinking birdie putts of 20, 7 and 6 feet. But he missed five straight greens beginning at No. 6 and saved par on four of them with clutch putting.

He took his only bogey at 10, narrowly missing a 15-footer.

"I kept needling my caddy," he said. "He was getting pretty excited out there . . . people kept taking our picture and he was in his glory . . . and so was I."

He confers constantly with his caddy, whom he identified only as Rabbit, and says he got his only bogey Thursday because he didn't follow Rabbit's advice.

Highlight of yesterday's round was a 70-foot birdie putt at No. 13.

Report Taylor Signs With New Orleans '11'

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Fullback Jimmy Taylor of the Green Bay Packers has signed a four-year contract reportedly worth $500,000 to play for the New Orleans Saints, the States-Item said today.

The newspaper said Taylor, a free agent since playing out his option this spring, signed the contract yesterday.

Under the terms, according to the States-Item, the Saints will pay Taylor $500,000 spread over a 20-year period to lighten the tax bite.

Taylor, who played nine years with the Packers, turned down a Green Bay offer which called for a three-year contract at $65,000 per year and a $50,000 bonus.

The fullback also declined an offer of $400,000 for three years from the Atlanta Falcons.

Marin Track Stars Sparkle In North Coast Qualifying

It was a better day than usual yesterday as Marin County athletes showed up strong at the North Coast Section Division III Track and Field Meet at Santa Rosa.

But nobody showed up stronger than Santa Rosa Montgomery High School's Mel Gray.

Gray, the little supersonic cloud of dust, set a national record for the 100-yard dash on the straightaway track with a 9.4 seconds clocking, roared through a 20.9 time in the 220, and won the long jump with a 24-10 leap.

The Marin County Athletic League had only one varsity winner but picked up a flock of points in Class A while San Rafael finished second in the Class B meet behind Vallejo.

Santa Rosa won the varsity meet with Terra Linda showing up best for the MCAL with 25 points for fourth place. Redwood was fifth with 14½ points and Tamalpais sixth with 13.

In varsity competition, Terra Linda's Bob Bunnell got down into the forties to win the two-mile in 9:43.2. Tom Flautt and Lowell Harris of Terra Linda finished two-three in both hurdles events, and Tamalpais leaper Reggis Walker had a best-ever effort of 22-3¾ to take second in the long jump.

Tamalpais dash ace Allan Lee had a 9.9 clocking in his 100 heat win but pulled up with a tight leg in the finals and finished out of the running.

Paul Vanderbilt of San Rafael, who broke the MCAL pole vault record last week, shattered the NCS mark with a 13 feet vault, six inches better than the winning varsity height.

Herb Rowland won two events for San Rafael in Class B competition, taking the 70 high hurdles in 9.2 and the 180 low hurdles in 20.8 in addition to taking second in the long jump.

Billie Jean Top Seed

PARIS (AP) — Mrs. Billie Jean Moffitt King of Long Beach, Calif. is seeded No. 1 in the women's singles for the French International Tennis Tournament starting Monday. Roy Emerson of Australia is top seeded in men's singles.

San Rafael Rally Tops Terra Linda

San Rafael High's Sam Crowell, a leftfielder turned pitcher, hurled a one-hitter at Terra Linda's Trojans yesterday and won the Marin County Athletic League baseball game 5-3, with the help of a nightmarish seventh inning when the Bulldogs scored all of their runs.

Mike Timmel, who went six and two thirds innings for the Trojans, allowed only three hits, but two of them came in that last inning when his team caved in around him. Terra Linda's mistakes in that inning included a wild pitch, a passed ball, a dropped and thrown away third strike, and a double play ball that ended up in right field at San Rafael's Albert Field.

UNEARNED RUNS

The only hit off Crowell, who had been used previously as a reliever, was an infield single by Mark Buckley in the second inning. Terra Linda's runs were all unearned, and were the result of Bulldog errors and Crowell's wildness. He walked eight and had a wild pitch, while striking out six.

Tam Replaces Drake In Baseball Cellar

Drake High School moved out of the Marin County Athletic League baseball cellar for the first time in two years yesterday at the expense of the new residents, Tamalpais Indians.

The 9-1 Drake victory in San Anselmo gives the Pirates a won-lost record of 4-7, as compared to last place Tam's 3-8.

After scoring twice in the fourth with the help of Charlie Alverez's run-producing double over the head of Kerry Tusup in right field, Drake broke the game open in the fifth, scoring five times. John Paletta had the big hit of the inning, a two run single with the bases loaded.

Ken Kline went the distance for the Pirates, giving up six hits and striking out ten.

Tam's only run came in the sixth when Tusup scored on a single by reliever Pat Schaffer.

Today is Saturday, May 20 the 140th day of 1967 with 225 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning star is Saturn. The evening stars are Venus, Jupiter and Mars.

Born on this day in 1799 was French author Honore de Balzac.

On this day in history:

In 1902, Cuba became a replublic as American occupation under Gen. Leonard Wood came to an end.

In 1927, Charles Lindbergh began his flight from New York City to Paris in the Spirit of St. Louis, a monoplane. He landed in the French capital 33½ hours later.

In 1939, Pan American Airways started the first regular air passenger service across the Atlantic.

In 1963 the Supreme Court legalized sit-in demonstrations.

A Thought for the Day — French author Honore de Balzac once said: "Those sweetly smiling angels with pensive look . . . innocent faces . . . and cash boxes for hearts."

TIME AND TIDE

Department of Commerce, United States Coast Geodetic Survey, Western District headquarters. Times and heights of tides at San Francisco (Golden Gate):

The column of heights gives the elevation in feet of each tide above or below the plane of Coast Survey chart soundings. The depths are always additive to the chart depths unless preceded by a minus sign (-), when the numbers are subtracted from the depth given in the chart. Light-face type indicates a.m. times; bold-face type indicates p.m. times.

Always Keep Your Guard Up Against Bad Contract Breaks

Some of us have trouble with inanimate objects. A chair at the other end of the room will shift its position to trip us up, and everybody knows what a deck of cards can do.

If you are a member of this unlicky brotherhoood, keep your guard up at all times.

ACE TRICK

South won the first trick with the ace of clubs, drew four rounds of trumps and then blithely led out dummy's ace and king of diamonds. The diamonds were foul, and so was South's mood for the rest of the evening. Down one.

Since South knew he was an unlucky soul he should have protected himself against a bad diamond break. A simple safety play would do the job.

South wins the ace of clubs, draws two rounds to trumps with dummy's king and queen and then pauses to cash the ace of diamonds.

He draws the rest of West's trumps and leads the eight of diamonds from his hand.

PLAYS LOW

West must play low, since to play the ten of diamonds would make matters simple. Now South lets the eight of diamonds ride as a finesse.

If East can win the trick with the ten or queen of diamonds he will return a spade to South's ace. South leads a diamond to the king, thus dropping the only diamond that can still be out.

He cashes the king of clubs to discard the queen of spades and easily takes the rest with a trump and two good diamonds.

HOLDING TRICK

As the cards lie, South's eight of diamonds would hold the trick. South leads another diamond to the king, discards the queen of spades on the king of clubs and returns to his hand with the ace of spades to give up a diamond. South easily wins the last two tricks with a trump and the jack of diamonds.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two hearts.

With this weak hand yiu can afford only one voluntary bid, and you should therefore raise partner's major suit. You cannot bid your spades and later show support for hearts since this would promise 2 or 3 points more than you actually hold.

Many Lives Saved By The Code Of The Sea

FEW OF US ORDINARILY think of Marin as a waterfront community.

The earliest settlers could never forget they were on the waterfront because they came and went by boat before the first horse-drawn vehicles and the first roads made their appearance.

In the early days, commercial vessels hauled cargoes up San Rafael Creek all the way to where D Street crosses what's left of old Mahon Creek.

"Ross Landing" was the port for Ross Valley. It was located about where the College of Marin campus is situated today.

Belvedere Cove was a harbor for sailing vessels abandoned by their crews who went off to the mines to seek gold in the 1850s.

Early settlers in Novato were supplied by watercraft navigating Novato Creek well above the point where Highway 101 now bridges what's left of that waterway.

Tomales Bay and the creek that led to the Tomales town embarcadero were busy with commercial traffic 100 years ago, as was Bolinas lagoon where remnants of the old lighter wharf still remain. Paradise Cove was famous for an amusement park reached principally by water. McNear's Beach and China Camp were well known Marin waterfront establishments.

Richardson Bay was the site of a shipyard building ocean going cargo ships as recently as World War II. Mill Valley's original mill shipped its redwood timber by water across the bay to build old San Francisco. Las Gallinas Creek, only recently dredged to accommodate pleasure craft, had an earlier history as a waterway, now nearly forgotten. A little used railroad ferry still survives at Tiburon.

Drake's Bay and Limantour Bay have long maritime histories. Commercial fishing boats still utilize Drake's Bay as a base of operations. Tiburon Naval Net Depot was preceded by a famous Naval Coaling Station.

Unfortunately, like Marin's Hispanic heritage, our waterfront heritage tends to be forgotten even by oldtimers. Many newcomers are unaware of it altogether.

THERE ARE, HOWEVER, a few among us who still keep alive the old traditions of the sea.

A week ago last night, Dr. Matthew N. Hosmer (a former commodore of Marin Yacht Club) was enjoying the view from his hilltop home in San Rafael, overlooking the bay.

He thought he saw a small sailboat "in trouble" out on the San Rafael channel. He telephoned Willard "Doc" Cannaday, Marin Yacht Club harbormaster, suggesting that Cannaday try to put his field glasses on the vessel in trouble and perhaps report the situation to the Coast Guard.

Cannaday took a look and decided there wasn't time to call the Coast Guard. He boarded a Yacht Club member's boat in his care and headed out. He rescued two men and an 8-year-old boy from the water and established that the only other passenger, an 8-year-old girl, was saved by another boat.

Doc Cannaday brought the three into San Rafael where they could get medical attention for the youngster who complained of a shoulder pain.

Having deposited the rescued trio on dry land, Cannaday returned to Marin Yacht Club and called it a day.

Meanwhile the Coast Guard arrived on the scene, righted the capsized sailboat, pumped it out and towed it to safety.

ON CITY STREETS AN INJURED or mortally ill person can lie ignored unto death by hundreds of passersby.

A person stranded with a broken down auto on a freeway can sit helpless for hours while thousands pass by.

But old sailors live by the code of the sea. No self-respecting seaman would ever turn his back on a vessel or person in distress on the water so long as he was able to render any kind of assistance, be it no more than the comfort of "standing by" ready to help in any possible way.

When a fireman rescues a person from a burning building, the record duly notes an act of heroism for saving a life.

When a policeman pulls a person to safety from a collapsing building, or burning vehicle he is appropriately credited with an act of heroism for saving a life.

When a seaman pulls a shipwrecked person from the water "it's all in a day's work;" it is not regarded as heroic.

Not so many months ago, the same Doc Cannaday of last week's rescue came upon a man in the water off a foundered vessel in the Bay. The man in the water unquestionably was "a goner" for sure, had not Cannaday come to his rescue.

"It wasn't anything. Anybody else would have done the same thing," was Cannaday's only response to inquiries about that rescue.

All of us landlubbers in Marin would do well to become acquainted with our water front heritage and remember the code of the seaman.

By example, seamen convey a message which all of us should heed.

THREE MINUTES A DAY

BACKWARD STUDENTS NEED SYMPATHETIC HELP

How can you help a slow student improve his school work? One educator, Doctor Leslie J. Nason, says it isn't a matter of just convincing the student to work harder, or to stop being lazy or scatterbrained.

Here are four vital needs of the slow student, according to Doctor Nason:

A person to whom he can turn without being criticized.

Someone who believes he can succeed.

Someone who wants him to succeed.

Someone ready and willing to help him.

Often, an individual, especially a backward student, does not know how to improve himself. Unless he is helped by someone who truly cares, there is little chance of his overcoming deficiencies.

People, whether young or old, respond more readily to understanding and sympathy than to cold, impersonal faultfinding. This is the approach the God Himself employs and which all of use prefer in regard to our own shortcomings.

"Be steadfast in your understanding, and let your speech be consistent."

(Sirach 5:10)

Teach me, O Lord, to focus attention on the good in people rather than their deficiencies.

Bouquets And Brickbats

A BOUQUET to Sandy Sutton, 17, of Marinwood, who won the "Miss 1967 KTIM" title. She is a junior at Terra Linda High School.

A BOUQET to Donald L. Johnson of Novato for heading up the 1967 United Bay Area Crusade campaign among all small businesses and residential areas in Marin.

BRICKBATS to the young rowdies who disrupted the Novato High School dance last week and thus jeopardized future school dances for all students.

BOUQUETS to the Sir Francis Drake High School student newspaper, "Jolly Roger," for winning the best newspaper award in the Tamalpais High School District.

BOUQUETS to the state Public Utilities Commission for approving toll free telephone service between Novato and San Rafael.

A BOUQUET to the Golden Gate Bridge on its 30th anniversary.

A BOUQUET to Mrs. David R. Lawrence of San Rafael, past president of the Marin Motion Picture Council, for winning the outstanding service award from the Nothern California Theater Owners Assn.

Mufti Patrol Cars Bill Is Criticized

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Patrol car camouflage bill by Assemblyman William Ketchman, Paso Robles:

I submit that his bill will not do what it is supposed to do—reduce accidents, and thus save lives due to reckless driving on the highways. It might result in more arrests, but that is not the purpose. The more highway patrol cars visible to the driving public, the safer will the public drive.

It has been my observation that since stationing more highway patrol cars on the run between Alto-Wye and Golden Gate Bridge there has been less reckless driving. The accident rate is probably less. If a patrol car could always be in view, I believe that we would then have the minimum number of accidents.

All Marinites Urged To Observe May 30

Editor, Independent-Journal:

This Memorial Day may remind us of a far greater honor to be paid.

About 400,000 of our servicemen died in the battles of two World Wars and Korea. They had been ordinary men; men who lived next door, boys fresh from schools, known danger, felt fear clutching at their breats and throats. They took up arms to defend their country. . . . Every community had its men and women who had survived the battles of war, some of them disabled. . . . . Veterans organizations throughout the United States have pledged to help perpetuate the annual observances of Memorial Day. This sacred duty has now become the obligation of all citizens and veterans organizations in Marin County. . . .

Those who came out of civilian life to fulfill an ancient tradition gained a title men could wear proudly; they were veterans.

Now, it is not very fashionable, these days to honor our fighting men. The very word patriot has disappeared from respectable use; it has somehow become sophisticated and liberal and altogether cool to burn draft cards, to dwell incessantly upon tragic mistakes that are part of any war.

Our Memorial Day now includes those who died in Viet Nam. . . . Never has there been a more opportune time for the citizens and all fraternal organizations of Marin County to join in the services this Memorial Day, for many of today's service men in uniform serving their country may never return.

Let us show our patriotism against the shameful demonstrations against our country and its fighting men who are giving their lives in Viet Nam today.

Editor, Independent-Journal:

The brand of tyranny endorsed by Mr. Riemcke and Mr. Gilmartin in recent editions is rooted in fear and nourished by ignorance. If one were to follow their style of "logic" one might conclude that any man who is blond, crew-cut, and over 40 is a former SS guard and therefore should not be in a position of responbisility in the field of education. Actually, in times of great change only the immature or stupid are so afraid of the future that they seek to curtail our dearly won freedoms.

Choosing one's style or length of hair is certainly a harmless way of practice making choices and decisions . . an ability that will certainly be invaluable when a young person reaches voting age and assumes the responsibilities of democratic citizenship. Aren't the uniformed and regimented children that appear in pictures from Communist countries among the more repulsive features of those dictatorships? The best way to encourage a Communist takeover in this country would seem to be to teach blind obedience to authority.

Personally, I would prefer to teach my children to judge others by their actions and ideals rather than by their appearances.

Richard Speck's hair is "normal"; Jesus Christ's was long.

Editor, Independent-Journal:

For all the members of the North Bay Yacht Club of San Rafael, and for the Women's Auxiliary too, may I thank you for the fine publicity extended our club in your recent Boating tabloid. Its total excellence offered evidence that there was a lot of work that went on "behind the scenes" to make that publication-within-a publication a most worthy contribution to the world of boating.

Patrick Just Talking Crazy

Editor, Independent-Journal:

If William Penn Patrick thinks he is going to stifle antiwar expression by threatening punitive reprisal against those of us who speak up because we are appalled at the extent of our coutry's mistakes in Vietnam, he is just blowing into the wind.

Even if Congress declares war this is a period in our history which is not comparable to our efforts to defend ourselves against open aggression in World War II or to our participation in Korea which was at least to some extent a UN effort and had a great deal of support throughout the family of noncommunist nations. Now we are the meddling aggressor and it appears that we are in Vietnam illegally and immorally. Those of us who believe that our participation in this civil war is wrong will only be goaded to express the more if an attempt is made to stop dissent, debate, and freedom of speech by force.

As our own Thoreau pointed out — obedience to moral law may have to override obedience to civil law when the latter is deemed to be erroneous in one's considered judgement.

Red Chinese Peril Complicates Life For North Vietnam's Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ho Chi Minh no doubt has had to endure the same thing that plagues President Johnson, the hawks and doves swooping around daily, but now the North Vietnamese leader has his own international troubles.

He's caught between the Red Chinese and 16 U.S. senators.

For 21 years he has been fighting outsiders, first the French and now the Americans, without any sign of letting up. He has the backing of the Soviets and Red China which could be pretty comfortable support.

CHINA'S PREMIER, Chou En-lai, has just been quoted as saying in an interview he would be glad to send hordes of Chinese troops into North Vietnam to help out any time Ho asked for them. Apparently he hasn't asked.

Ho has a good reason for not asking, so long as he thinks he can get by on his own. Up till now the United States has been willing to limit the fighting to South Vietnam.

It has put no troops in North Vietnam although it has bombed the North on selective basis. But if the Red Chinese moved into the North, the United States would have to go North to stop them.

THAT WOULD turn North Vietnam into a slaughter house. The bombing would be broadened and the country would probably wind up a wasteland.

But Simon Malley, a U.S. newsman working for African papers, said Chou told him Chinese "volunteers" would pour into North Vietnam under certain conditions, apparently whether Ho wanted them or not.

Malley, in a series of articles distributed by the Chicago Daily News, said Chou declared the "volunteers" would move in if U.S. forces invaded the North and China thought her security endangered, or if Ho agreed to a settlement which China didn't like.

This confronts Ho with a goulish thought that, if he ever reaches the point where he wishes to quit, he may suddenly find his country turned into a battlefield he didn't want or couldn't imagine.

HE REMEMBERS what happened in North Korea — since the same could happen in North Vietnam — when the Red Chinese sent their "volunteers" into that war to fight the Americans.

The fighting was limited to North Korea. The United States neither attacked nor bombed Red China itself.

The Chinese employ a thin fiction when they say "volunteers" — instead of calling them regular troops — cross a border to fight a war. They can argue they are not formally at war and thus try to make an attack on them look outrageous.

"VOLUNTEERS" or not, if China got into the war the United States would have another reason for limiting the war to North Vietnam instead of attacking China. If it attacked China, Moscow might feel compelled to go to China's aid.

But 16 U.S. senators Wednesday may have disillusioned Ho if he clings to the belief dissension about the war in this country may undermine the American determination to fight it.

Earlier this month Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of the U.S. forces in Vietnam, complained antiwar criticism and demonstrations here encouraged Ho to keep on fighting in the belief the American will would weaken.

PERHAPS HO will interpret what the senators did as an effort to show they do not want to be identified with anything that might undercut the U.S. war effort.

Making public a statement which they didn't send Ho but hoped he would read, they called on him to be reasonable and start talking peace.

They acknowledged they had been critical of the war but made plain they did not see eye to eye with him in his demands that U.S. forces must pull out before there is peace. If that happened, Ho would have all Vietnam to himself.

They said they wanted him to know the United States was determined not to pull out. But if Ho listens to them and seeks peace, he can't be sure Red China won't use that as an excuse to move in. If he ignores the senators, he will give American critics of the war less reason to be critical.

BUT WHEN Ho heard Red China denied ever giving Malley any interviews at all, he must have asked himself: Who's kidding whom?

Poverty War Started Vital New Thinking

By WHITNEY M. YOUNG JR.

The War on Poverty is the name given to the broad range of programs operated by the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO). These programs have been under way since 1964, and while they never got enough money to live up to being called a "war" against poverty, they do constitute a broad frontal attack on the problems of the poor. In its first two years, the war on poverty has served more than 9 million Americans, including 1.3 million disadvantaged children in Head Start.

THE IMPORTANCE of the War on Poverty lies in the fact that its programs are geared to helping the poor help themselves by becoming independent producers in the economy, rather than consumers of tax dollars. Money spent on the War on Poverty is not spent, it is invested in people who will eventually pay it back in the taxes they will pay on earnings from jobs they never would have had a chance to hold without the program.

The Job Corps is a good example of this. The average expense for each graduate of the Job Corps is $5,850. But since these young people are being trained to hold better jobs, the government will get back twice the cost of their training through the higher taxes they will pay in the course of their working lives. And that doesn't include the savings on welfare costs.

PERHAPS the most important aspect of the War on Poverty are the community action programs which give the poor, perhaps for the first time in their lives, a sanse of control over their own destinies. If the cycle of failure and poverty is to be broken, it is programs like these which will do the job. By including the poor on the governing boards of local anti-poverty agencies, OEO gives them the opportunity to remake their own neighborhoods and deal with the local problems which only they can know.

By including the poor in the planning and execution of their programs, the 1,100 community action agencies performed the service of waking up some of the established social agencies who just weren't doing their job. Many of them suddenly realized that they were neglecting their responsibilities and started their own programs. But this would never happen if it weren't for the local anti-poverty groups and their articulate and dynamic poor representatives.

WHATEVER happens to present OEO programs, we should always have an agency which is independent of established offices and which will serve as a catalyst, experimenting and developing new programs, proving they can work and then pushing older agancies to accept their approach and run them themselves.

City, County Sued Over Tiburon Slide

A Tiburon couple who evacuated their rainstorm-collapsing house last March, sued the City of Tiburon and County of Marin for $70,000 damages yesterday.

Raymond D. and Virginia Noel claim the defendants maintained an inadequate storm drain system on property adjacent to the Noel home at 34 Reed Ranch Road and that the overflow of water from rains saturated their land.

On Feb. 17, a large portion of the back yard began sliding, the complaint adds, and decks, shrubbery and the house foundation were damaged.

The suit also charges fraud by co-defendants Harley Russery, who sold them the eight-room house July 16, 1964, and his agents, Ann Schultz and George Brockman, by failing to disclose to the plaintiffs that the house was on fill.

It asks either for annullment of the sale, or for the damages.

The Noels further charge that John Novak, builder, failed to properly construct the house against sliding. The suit asks that the county and Tiburon be restrained from discharging more storm water into the drain.

On March 17, Tiburon condemned the house, terming it unsafe to reside in because of fire danger and the chance of total collapse from more rain.

A Nurse Is Part Of The Teaching Team

See Page M2

TODAY THE school nurse often finds herself in the classroom, presenting health education information or supplementing the instruction of the regular teacher with some of her specialized knowledge. At West Novato Elementary School, nurse Margaret Feldstein makes such on appearance before an attentive class.

The School Nurse In The Classroom

Today's She's An Integral Part Of The Educational Process

By DON KEOWN

Many a parent still thinks of the school nurse as the motherly woman who applied bandages to scrapes and nicks suffered at play during recess.

But today's school nurse is far more than a glorified "first aider." Even the once familiar white uniform is gone.

She's an integral part of the teaching team.

Her primary role now is the the health of students and of all promotion and maintenance of the school personnel, both certificated and non-certificated.

AS A FACULTY member serving within the educational framework, she frequently finds herself inside the classroom.

Her specific duties, however, vary according to the needs of the district for which she works, and the directions she receives from superintendent, principals and the board of trustees of her district.

Nevertheless, some generalizations of the work and responsibilities of school nurses in Marin County are possible.

THE HEALTH service of a high school is usually staffed by a nurse who is in the building full-time and serves the entire student body that may number between 1,600 and 2,500 youths.

Seldom is there a time when the school nurse's office does not have at least one student who has come there for counseling on a special health or personal problem.

This nurse, too, will be involved in vision screening, will either conduct or assist in hearing tests, will set up and help with physical examinations for team sports, will keep detailed health records on the individual students, will hold conferences with students' parents and interested professional persons such as teachers, physicians, psychologists, counselors and speech therapists, concerning dent health problems.

THE CONFERENCE subjects may deal with a student frequently ill and absent from classes, with an infection, a possible drug user, a nervous condition, new contact lens glasses, an allergy, a diabetes or hepatitis case, a weak back, or any number of other ailments or injuries that properly concern the nurse.

The services provided by the elementary school nurse are not markedly dissimilar. But she may serve four to eight schools within driving distance of each other, and with a total enrollment of from 1,500 to 3,000.

The recommendation of the School Health Association is that there be one nurse per 1,500 students.

ESPECIALLY important on the elementary school level is the use the teacher can make of the school nurse as a resource person. The nurse finds herself more frequently a classroom participant. Conferences with teachers on the individual prob-

MARIN CLEANERS Phone 454-4792 — Member N.I.D. of San Rafael, Bel Aire & Fairfax

"Did My Drycleaner Stain My Dress?"

My first answer would be "No." However, a stain might be acquired at your drycleaners, but it is most unlikely. The equipment and cleansing ingredients are tested and re-tested, filtered and replenished over and over. The stain which you noted, if caused by drycleaning, would be repeated elsewhere and on other customers' fabrics.

When a stain which was not noticeable on a garment before cleaning, shows up after cleaning, the chances are that it was there all the time. Such "invisible" stains are caused by soft drinks, liquor or fruit juices. The deposit they leave is a colorless sugar. When the fabric is cleaned, heat causes the stain to emerge.

Sometime a customer's efforts to remove a stain makes it impossible for your cleaner to remove it properly. Rubbing at a wet spot in a garment may wear the fabric and make a nasty blot not caused by the stain. Or the customer may use a chemical spot remover not adapted to the dye or the fabric and an indelible mark is left.

When something spills on a garment, pin a piece of paper to the location and note what was spilled on it. Take it to your cleaner at once. That is your best protection against "invisible" or visible stains becoming permanent.

By Robert and Ronald Casassa, Marin Cleaners, Inc.

lems of students occur more often.

The nurse may be appearing before first graders, giving a demonstration on the proper technique of handwashing, and telling why cleanliness is so important. Or issuing pamphlets to those tots giving the elements of first aid.

Or perhaps a sixth grader has brought to class an article about LSD and marijuana. The teacher has invited the nurse to her room to answer questions concerning the article and the dangerous potential of LSD and drugs. A lively discussion results.

THE SECOND grade is studying nutrition. The nurse provides a demonstration of Indian diet, and how the redmen met the basic requirements of good nutrition.

The dangers of teasing dogs, of throwing rocks at bees' nests, of shooting paper clips with rubber bands may provide a topic which the nurse is called upon to discuss in the classroom.

Perhaps the teacher has been instructing in anatomy, and the nurse is asked to supplement those lessons.

A RESUSCITATION demonstration may be staged.

The rural school nurse will have some functions uniquely her own.

The school she serves is usually small, of from one to four rooms containing grades one through eight and with an enrollment of from 11 to 100 boys and girls.

DISTANCES between schools, and the smaller enrollments, plus the fact that other districts share her services, cause her visits to be less frequent.

However, she too must carry on such services as screening, assisting in health education, counseling and health protection.

In Marin County the parochial schools are served by public health nurses from the Marin County Health Department. They perform their duties under the direction of the health department and school administrators.

SAN DOMENICO School for Girls has its own health service. Six of the nine other church-operated schools in Marin have volunteer registered nurses not employed by a public agency who act in an advisory and assisting capacity.

Special education classes such as those for the orthopedically-handicapped, the mentally-retarded, the hard-of-hearing and the visually-handicapped are served by a school nurse with special training in those areas.

Districts of the county can contract for the services of a mobile hearing testing unit administered by the office of the Marin County superintendent of school. Testing is conducted by Marin County school nurses who are registered audiometrists. Children in grades one, three, five, seven, nine and 11 are tested each year.

THOSE WITH hearing problems are retested and referred to school nurses for parent conferences and medical follow-up. Continuing records are kept on each student.

the county superintendent of schools.

In addition to their own county organization, the women are active in such other professional groups as the California Teachers Association, the American Public Health Association and the American Nurses Association.

OUTSIDE THE immediate circles of her profession, the nurse is also likely to belong to organizations such as the Parent-Teachers Association, the Marin Association for Mental Health, the American Red Cross, the Easter Seal Crippled Childrens Society and similar groups.

Through such contacts come some of the material that enters the classroom as programs concerning smoking, alcohol, drugs, venereal disease, mental health, family life education, good grooming, dental health, tuberculosis control, nutrition, safety.

It serves her well, too, when she speaks before P-TA units, boards of trustees, administrators and teacher staff meetings.

THE WHITE CAP and uniform have been discarded, the nurses explain, because, in children's minds, these were too closely identified with the negative aspects of their work — illness and accidents.

Today's nurse stresses the affirmative — the education and counseling that encourage good physical and mental health.

One of the most effective preventive programs, the nurses feel, is the instilling in parents of an awareness of their children's health needs.

VITAL, TOO, is the support they receive from administrators and teachers who have come to recognize that the learning aptitudes of boys and girls may depend to a large measure upon their mental and physical condition.

No longer is the nurse the "visiting stranger" in the school.

She's very much a part of the educational process. And she likes it that way.

The Church As A Community Center

Location In Ignacio Marketplace Represents A New Concept

A few years back the builders of new churches seemed to be in competition for the most modern and even far-out in architectural appearance, no matter how orthodox or traditional the worship services to be conducted inside the structure.

Today, a new concept — the church in the marketplace — is making itself felt.

Marin County has the first of these buildings specifically constructed for church use — The Church In Ignacio.

Officially designated as the Episcopal Church of St. Ignatius, Vicar Charles Gompertz says of it: "At Pacheco Plaza, we have a Safeway store, a beauty shop, a cleaner — not quite as colorful as the village marketplace, but nonetheless our contemporary American version of the the same thing."

THIS IS WHERE the church belongs, Gompertz says, for his church is not just a place of worship, but a community center, with a nursery school, concerts, fashion shows, lectures and many other activities, including teen-age rock dances.

The Terra Linda Little Theater, homeless last fall, was offered use of the church for its season of three plays and eagerly accepted.

Its third production, "Dark of the Moon," opens this coming Friday and will run for three weekends.

THIS CHURCH lends itself to plays, for its design is theatrical in itself. Quite the opposite of the "far-out" buildings, The Church In Ignacio from the outside is just another one of the long, low structures which make up Pacheco Plaza Shopping Center. But inside it is strikingly different.

Architect Kaya Apaydin recalled the designs of his native Turkey for the mosque-like interior, in which four huge laminated natural wood beams sweep up from the corners of the nave to meet at a peak almost 40 feet high.

The design is doubly appropriate, for the patron saint of the church is St. Ignatius of Antioch, a city in Asia Minor.

A SKYLIGHT allows the sunlight to pour into the nave, which Apaydin has broken into an octagon at floor level with four 12-foot-high redwood panels set out from the wall. These alternate with a sand-colored concrete back wall to break up the space and avoid any barn-like feeling, yet leave an impression of tremendous size.

In the center of the nave is the altar, a simple table starkly accented by two big candles. Here Vicar Gompertz conducts the service, his congregation seated in a circle about him, as long ago they gathered about the priests in the marketplace. He has learned the technique of "theater-in-the-round," moving so that everyone sees his face during the liturgy.

Theater-in-the-round was also considered by Terra Linda Little Theater president Lou Mason when the group moved in with "Oh Dad, Poor Dad, Mama's Hung You In The Closet And I'm Feeling So Sad." However, the play did not lend itself to this type of production, nor did the group feel that "Destry," its second show, would work in the round.

IN THE CURRENT production, director Karl Barron (also the Independent-Journal drama critic) is taking full advantage of the church's structural features. "Dark Of The Moon," a fantasy with music which was a hit on Broadway in 1945, remains one of the most played

Church Belongs In Marketplace, Says Vicar Of New Congregation

American dramas today, although it has not been seen in the Bay Area for a number of years.

It takes place on a wind-swept mountain peak and in a small village in the Smoky Mountains. With eight scene changes in two acts, Barron decided to use three sides of the octagon, with the audience seated across the nave in long rows.

The witches in the story appear at times on a jagged peak almost 20 feet above the audience, achieved by placing a platform on one of the redwood dividers. And in each of the three octagon divisions being used, scenery is set in advance, allowing a fluid change of sets and uninterrupted continuity.

THE FANTASY of the play is heightened by Lavonne Bain's lighting design, which casts huge shadows in and out of the dark corners of the church.

Gompertz says he is delighted with the choice of "Dark Of The Moon." It revolves about the religious practices of the mountain folk, and contains several controversial scenes.

"Authors Howard Richardson and William Berney based their play on life — a phase of life as it has been lived for many years in remote mountain areas," says Gompertz. "It is an important play, for it reveals the manner in which bigotry and intolerance end only in tragedy.

"AND THIS revelation of life is directly related to what we are trying to do here. Not to separate the church from daily life, but to bring it closer.

"The church belongs in the center of things, not stuck off somewhere on a quiet residential street. This is where life is. This is where Jesus and St. Paul and St. Ignatius did their preaching."

The Church In Ignacio, although the first to be built specifically as an integral part of a marketplace, is not the original marketplace church.

THE NEW approach was tried initially in the East by parishes which rented existing space in shopping centers. Their success led to formation of plans for the actual building of a church fitted into the scheme of a shopping center.

Completed at a cost of about $125,000 less than a year ago, St. Ignatius has lived up to the hopes for it.

"The Church In Ignacio," says Gompertz, "is a spiritual home for all Christians living in the area, no matter what their background may have been before coming to live in Marin."

FROM A non-existent congregation, he has built to one hundred families since the church opened.

The "symbol" of the Church In Ignacio, designed by A. Merrill Brown, carries out the intent of the church.

It is a large "C," octagonal as is the nave, in which, says Gompertz "we, as a church, conduct our worship, and as a community, gather for dances, plays, concerts and lectures. Within the octagon are found both the cross of Jesus Christ and the 'I' of our community — Ignacio. Further, the position of the cross indicates our central altar, around which we gather as a religious community dedicated to God, to give thanks for His love in our lives.

"The cross is superimposed upon the 'I' because this is the priority of our task — to bring the truth and the message of the cross to Ignacio."

PACHECO PLAZA Center, named for the original Spanish land-grant holder, Ygnacio Pacheco, is actually in Novato. When that city enlarged its boundaries to include Hamilton Air Force Base, it also took in Ignacio.

But Frank Galli, owner of the long-established Galli's Restaurant, just behind the church, mounted a spirited campaign to retain the name of Ignacio and won it.

Whether you attend Episcopal services of a Sunday morning, or drop in Friday or Saturday night to hear Preacher Haggler evoke brimstone in "Dark Of The Moon," you can be assured that your welcome at the Church In Ignacio will be the same.

You'll just be another soul from the marketplace, taking part in the new concept of "working religion."

Marinites At Sonoma State

INDICATIVE OF THE tremendous strides already made by youthful Sonoma State College at Rohnert Park is the flourishing new Center for the Performing Arts program. The Dance Workshop, one of the member groups, is seen above in rehearsal. Wendy Hicks, extreme right, is just one of the many Marinites attending Sonoma State and taking part in the performing arts program.

The impact of Sonoma State College is making itself felt not only in the immediate vicinity surrounding the actual college campus itself, but in all the six counties, including Marin, served by the college.

Sonoma State College is young, chronologically only 6 years old, and newer yet with its permanent campus at Rohnert Park. The new campus will be formally dedicated next week with a series of events that will include drama presentations, dance programs, musicals by student groups, a "Forum For The Future," a dedication dinner, and a special early commencement program. The culmination of these events will be a special performance by the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra with Josef Krips conducting next Saturday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. on the athletic field.

MARIN COUNTY residents have been quick to take advantage of the educational and cultural opportunities offered by Sonoma State College.

The drive to the campus is a comparatively short and easy one. The commute traffic is going the other way!!

Classes are still relatively small and high standards of perfection on the part of the faculty have resulted in a recent announcement of high scholarship for 25 per cent of the student body.

ONE OF THE latest cultural additions to the college is the newly created Center For the Performing Arts, directed by Dr. Fred Warren, chairman of the music department.

By grouping all the performing arts into one center, Dr. Warren has been able to establish a tightly knit, well organized performing arts center that has already established a reputation for excellence that is known far beyond the confines of the college service area.

Members of the Center For the Performing Arts are:

THE DANCE Workshop, directed by Mrs. Sandra Dunwoody; the Drama Workshop, directed by Prof. Robert Chase; the Jazz Workshop, directed by Jerry Moors; the Opera Workshop, directed by Dr. Peggy Donovan who also directs the Community Chorus, the Madrigal Singers and the Collegiate Chorale and the Philharmonic Symphony, all directed by David R. Sprung of Novato.

These performing groups are open to all members of the community as well as registered students of Sonoma State College. By having people with professional backgrounds as well as students participating in such a program, both are able to learn and share their experiences with the others.

DAVID R. SPRUNG
Birth of a philharmonic

Many members of these groups have been in retirement from professional activities and now are enjoying an active schedule of exciting and demanding performances.

DAVID SPRUNG, conductor and musical director of the Sonoma State College Philharmonic, is an example of the well rounded professional musician.

He came to Sonoma State College last September and said he wanted to develop a symphony orchestra. People laughed at him, even his own colleagues. But within a few months, he had built a 50-piece symphony which gave its first performance at the Christmas program and then, in March, presented a full-length program.

Sprung, one of the four foremost French horn soloists in the United States, has enjoyed a reputation of perfection in all musical ventures. He filled in recently as the guest conductor of the San Leandro Symphony and also appeared with the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra during Easter week in the Berlioz "Requiem." He has been invited to conduct the Napa Symphony in the fall.

HIS AMBITION is to build the SSC Philharmonic to an even larger musical organization and he feels that he has a solution to his problem.

"If a small community has a limited-size symphony orchestra that is floundering due to lack of musical leadership and funds, let them join us. We are in the marvelous position of being able to experiment with musical literature that the symphony bound by commercialism could not possibly do.

"Therefore, both the members of the symphony and the public who attend our performances are exposed to new modern music as well as some of the rare and unknown music of the masters."

ANOTHER ACTIVELY functioning member of the Center For the Performing Arts is the Opera Workshop, directed by Dr. Peggy Donovan, an attractive young woman who shatters all images of the title Dr.!

In a few short years, the Opera Workshop has developed into a highly polished group that performs regularly to full houses. Many of the members of this group are Marin County residents who meet every Monday evening for rehearsals and practice in the new three-story Stevenson Hall on campus.

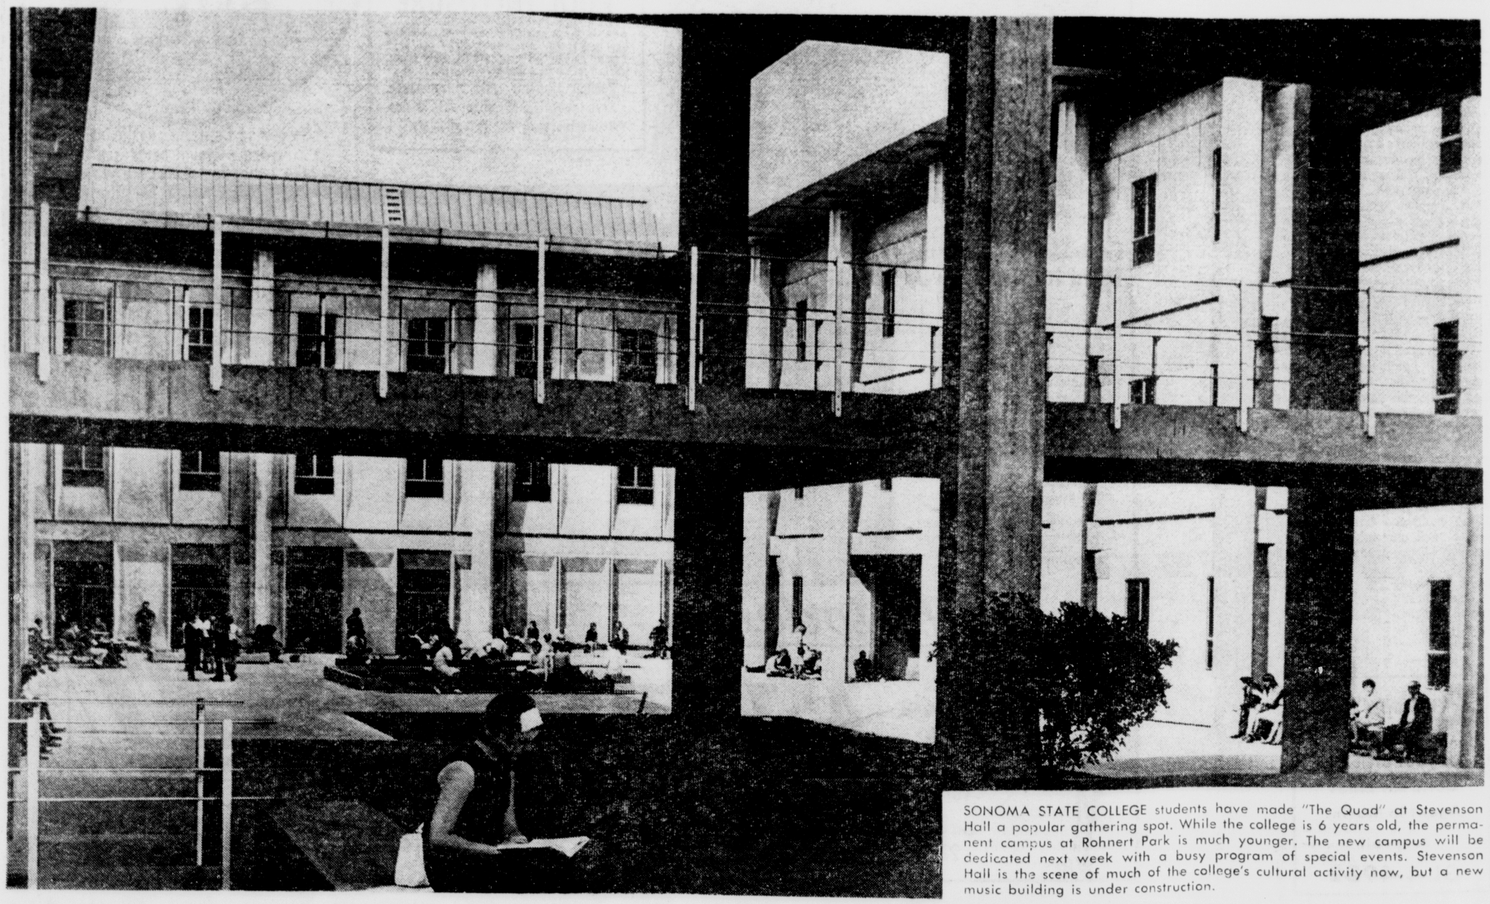
They will be able to work in the new music building, now under construction on the campus, for the fall semester.

Marin County members of the Opera Workshop are George Baker, Fairfax; Pat Brake, Martha Ward, Mill Valley; Mrs. Marjorie Broughton, Rosemary Bryans, San Rafael; John Enders, Corte Madera; Joan Smith, Greenbrae, and Anna Secrist, Novato.

PHYLLIS MURPHEY, Mill Valley, and Marian Wade, San Rafael, are coaches for the Opera Workshop.

Three Novato residents are active members of the Drama Workshop. They are Laurie Driscoll, Wendell Burton and Kym Fleet. Michael Hall of Mill Valley is also in the Drama Workshop.

There are several members of the Dance Workshop and the Jazz Workshop from Marin County.



SONOMA STATE COLLEGE students have made "The Quad" at Stevenson Hall a popular gathering spot. While the college is 6 years old, the permanent campus at Rohnert Park is much younger. The new campus will be dedicated next week with a busy program of special events. Stevenson Hall is the scene of much of the college's cultural activity now, but a new music building is under construction.

Alaska Plans An Exposition

"Is the snow very deep on the AlCan during summer months?"

"Do stores in Alaska accept U.S. money?" "Should I pack longjohns for our visit in July?"

"Can we see ice igloos in the summer or do they melt?"

These questions are from letters received daily by officials of the Alaska 67 Centennial Exposition opening in Fairbanks next Saturday.

THE EXPOSITION, major attraction of Alaska's purchase centennial year, has prompted inquiries from Seattle to Miami. Vacationers from the first 48 states and Hawaii are being drawn to the fascinating 49th state, but their information about Alaska is sometimes more fallacy than fact.

"We are expecting 150,000 out-of-state visitors to see our exposition during the 127-day season, but many of them will not see what they are expecting," reported Dennis Cook, Alaska 67 general manager and lifelong resident of Fairbanks.

"Our mail indicates many people have misconceptions about our state, particularly the Alaska Highway and weather. We at Alaska 67 are eager to dispel the rumors."

THERE WAS A time, Cook said, when the old AlCan had a bad reputation and deserved it.

"But that road, now 25-years-old and renamed the Alaska Highway, is today considered the finest gravel route in the world. The stretch from the Canadian border to Fairbanks is even paved."

Cook admitted the highway is "no Pennsylvania Turnpike," but pointed out "there is no snow during the summer months and most motorists consider it an exceptionally scenic drive."

WHAT ABOUT weather conditions in Fairbanks during the exposition?

"Our summers are perfect in every way — warm, dry and sunny," Cook said. "Last year's high was 85 degrees in August. We run in the high 60s or 70s most days, with nights dropping 10 or 15 degrees.

"But the nights will surprise some visitors. Our midnight sun gives us up to 22 or 23 hours of light. You can read a newspaper outside at midnight by natural light."

And the ice igloos?

"I'VE NEVER seen one," he admitted, "probably because there aren't any in Alaska. We have an authentic Eskimo-Indian village here at the exposition showing how the natives lived years ago, but these are made of wood and skins."

With a few fallacies dispelled, Cook turned to some of the facts about his state and its exposition.

"Alaska is a colorful and exciting state, and we have tried to capture a little of all its 586,400 square miles here on our 40-acre exposition site.

"WE HAVE A gold rush town and mining valley depicting the life and ways of the sourdoughs who pioneered this region. You can pan gold and find it in the valley, or step inside the Palace Cafe for a moose meat dinner.

"We built a complete narrow-gauge railway, called the Crooked Creek & Whiskey Island, typical of the so-called iron trails once common here. We have a 227-foot sternwheel riverboat on the site, one that actually steamed up and down the Yukon.

"Children will find Bonanzaland, our amusement area, the biggest ever erected in Alaska. Adults will want to see the musicals and melodramas, in our theaters, or visit our gallery of the finest in Alaskan art.

"This exposition has grown to be the state's biggest man-made show. We have millions invested in it and intend to show visitors that the facts about Alaska's past and present are more dramatic than any of the misinformation."

TO PUBLICIZE Alaska's 67 Centennial Exposition in Fairbanks, the Alaska Dog Mushers' Association put together this 67-dog team. But by the time the exposition opens next weekend, the snow will be gone.

THE OLD COLONIAL CITY of Hamilton, Bermuda, is becoming the "in place" for more and more American tourists. The white-roofed city is shown across Hamilton Harbour, with two ocean liners at dock.

Bermuda Has Changed, But Its Charm Remains

The British crown colony of Bermuda, adrift in the mid-Atlantic, has come a long way in the last three decades.

Since 1937, for example, air travel has changed Bermuda from a remote island catering to the privileged few to a prosperous resort catering to a rising tide of tourists.

Before the airlines put Bermuda squarely on the tourist map, the major hotels were open only during the "fashionable" winter and spring months. Automobiles were forbidden except for fire engines, ambulances and other vital vehicles.

THE GOVERNOR himself had to go by carriage around the nine parishes, strewn across seven islands and linked together by bridges and causeways. One governor, so they say, became so incensed about his mode of travel that he resigned in a huff and sailed back to England.

The Assembly replied heatedly that, "if the king himself came to Bermuda, he couldn't use an automobile."

Tourists once made their way around by bicycle, surrey, narrow-gauge railway, and ferry Today, taxis and buses have replaced the train, and bicycles have been motorized. Hotels remain open 365 days of the year, and water, once in short supply, is distilled from the sea.

GOLF, A WAY of life on the island, has turned Bermuda into a resort that knows no season.

Even when American fairways are blanketed with snow in winter, Bermuda's seven courses draw more than their share of linksmen. As a result, the government has purchased 170 acres in Southhampton and engaged RobertT rent Jones to design an 18-hole championship course which will be ready for play in 1968.

Hostelries throughout the Colony, such as Elbow Beach, Bermudiana, Belmont, Castle Harbour, Inverurie and Carlton, are constantly being refurbished. Others, notably the spacious Princess Hotel, have added new wings. There are several delightful cottage colonies, and an assortment of inexpensive pensions.

Small furnished houses can be rented at $150 to $350 a month and maids receive an average of $30 a week.

THE BERMUDA cuisine features seafood, especially lobster, and beef.

Since few hotels operate on a full pension basis, visitors can try the flambeed dishes at the Penthouse Club, Sunday brunch at Waterlot Inn, lobster at the Plantation, boula soup at the Breakers and game fish at Tom Moore's Tavern, where the poet of the same name is reputed to have come for inspiration in the 17th century.

Another thing that has not changed appreciably is the shopping in this "showcase of the British Empire." Front Street offers an assortment of bargains: cashmere sweaters and English woolens, English silver and bone china, as well as Swiss watches, Swedish crystal, German cameras and French perfumes.

WHEN THE United States set $100 of purchases and one quart of liquor as the limit each citizen could bring back duty-free, Bermuda merchants decided to give a little more. They sacrificed some profit to pare prices and help stretch dollar values.

Take liquor, for instance. In Bermuda a visitor still can save in the neighborhood of 40 per cent over state-side prices. A superior brand of Scotch costs $18.50 for five-fifths, or a gallon. A visitor with an allowance of one duty-free quart pays an $8.65 duty on only the balance of the gallon, bring the price to $27.15. In New York, for instance, he would pay $44.50 for this gallon—or $17.35 additional.

Although Pan American will transport some 200,000 sunseekers to Bermuda in 1967 in contrast to the 750 who arrived by air in 1937, the island remains an oasis of natural beauty and Old World charm.

When The Marriage Is A Trap

THE CAGE by Andrea Newman, Dial Press, 190 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Barbara L. Cullen.

Imprisonment can be a mental as well as a physical phenomenon.

To Valerie Ayden Ross, her marriage to Malcolm was a trap, one into which she knowingly, however grudgingly, had stepped. But her ideas on the perfect marriage partner, on one's life goals, on self-independence trapped Valerie far more inextricable than the simple union with her husband ever could.

It is true that the only area of real communication lay in Valerie and Malcolm's physical relationship which ultimately necessitated their decision to wed. But why choose marriage at all? For an avowedly clear-headed, determined girl — and one quite opposed to bearing and raising a child much less entering in on a less-than-satisfactory partnership — Valerie seems to have been unable to think through the most obvious legal alternative: adoption of the infant and resumption of her single life.

Miss Newman delves with frank honesty and thoroughness into Valerie's mental turmoil and anguish. At times she is even lyrical in expressing the reflections of the troubled girl.

However, the parallel which she attempts to draw between the girl friend Marianne's life and Valerie's is imperfect. The futility of both their situations is comparable, but not the sense of fatality. The event of Marianne's death did not really spring the lock on Valerie's mental "cage." It merely forced her to transfer her former aspirations and goals to the child.

Reversing the old cliche and examining a forced marriage from the woman's viewpoint have not added a new dimension of understanding to the problem. The details will change with the individual victim, but suffering is not restricted to a particular gender. In this case, sympathy is felt, not so much for Valerie who continues with and remains contemptuous of the marriage, but for her husband who naively regards both wife and daughter with genuine affection.

An Artist And Era He Lived

THE WORLD OF VERMEER (1632-1675) by Hans Konigsberger and the editors of Time-Life Books, Time Inc., 192 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Elizabeth Rogers.

Like other Time-Life publications, "The World of Vermeer" has been compiled and written for the general reader.

There is excellent delineation of the historical background and economic conditions of 17th century Holland —one of the most remarkable periods of art production in the western world.

Under Spanish domination, patronage had been confined to the Church, but in the new era it shifted to the mercantile class. Subject matter veered away from the religious and allegorical. As a consequence, the great paintings of Rembrandt, Vermeer and their contemporaries, consist mainly of portraiture and themes relating to everyday life.

Against this backdrop, Vermeer appears as a worthy successor to Rembrandt, although much less prolific, and receiving little recognition during his lifetime. He is better understood by modern-day artists and critics, who see him as a prophet of the later doctrine of design — as a master of the use of light to express mood and color. If Vermeer's work can be distinguished by any one characteristic it is the jewel-like tones that radiate from his canvases.

Of particular interest is the conjecture that Vermeer may have used a camera obscura to achieve certain effects. This was a viewing instrument which came into popular use during the period, although it was known to have existed in antiquity.

Some of this effect is apparent even in reproduction. Color plates are excellent for a volume of this price. Both plates and text include works by other masters, such as Frans Hals, Jan Steen, the Van de Veldes, and Adrian Brouwer.

As a presentation of the period, the book can be well-recommended for the layman and the student of art history and appreciation. It probably does not add much that is new to the serious art student.

Young Britisher Shows Promise

FOR LOVE OF MONEY by Tim Jeal, McGraw-Hill, 188 pages, $4.50. Reviewed by Laurel Shapiro.

". . . it is a miracle of sleight of hand," said The Glasgow Herald. The Oxford Mail found it "an extremely mature and entertaining novel . . . some of its episodes worthy of Evelyn Waugh . . ."

It's hard to believe we have all had at the same little novel.

Jeal wrote the book, his first, while still an undergraduate at Oxford, that one readily believes. And it is a remarkable piece of work, for an undergraduate. However, it seems far too slight to be out in the big cold world.

Two adolescent boys, their rich, befuddled Mummy and her lover, who has been living with and off her for years, are caught up in the older boy's determination to get rid of the parasite. Is his motive love for his mother or for the money she is squandering? The story moves in jerky patches that seem to serve no purpose other than to cover up the young author's lack of technique, and quite a lot of the action is unconvincing.

Still, there are some funny bits. Not unnaturally, the few school scenes come off best.

Jeal has a neat hand with dialogue, especially that of the boys, and the character of the younger son is developed well. It is altogether possible he may some day write a novel worthy of his current jacket raves.

Yoga For Women Of The West

YOGA FOR BEAUTY AND HEALTH by Eugene S. Rawls and Eve Diskin, Parker, 239 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Maxine Keown.

This is very likely the best book yet adapting the ancient Eastern practices of Yoga to the needs and abilities of the Western woman.

The book begins by laying the foundation for the student's understanding of what she can expect for Yoga. It then presents a series of Yoga exercises, emphasizing the slow, gentle approach that distinguishes these movements from the more vigorous calisthenics. Each set is designed to serve a specific health or beauty need. Each is clearly demonstrated via photographs.

Relaxation, sleeping, breathing, poise receive special attention.

There is then a very brief discussion of raja or mental Yoga, and finally a general schedule for a Yoga exercise program.

The two authors are established authorities and teachers of Yoga. Here they have turned out a most practical and valuable manual tha, the average housewife or business woman, or student, too, for that matter, can adopt as her guide toward a more healthful, vital way of life.

The Active Life Of A Daredevil

HOLLYWOOD PILOT by Don Dwiggins, Doubleday, 249 pages, $6.50. Reviewed by Frank Farrara.

This is not a probing biography of Paul Mantz, who flew as a racing, stunt and charter pilot during a life that spanned the air age from barnstorming to jets.

It doesn't have to be because the adventure of flying, the glamour of Hollywood and the aerial escapades of Mantz carry the story along nicely.

Mantz's stunts were not as daredevil as they seemed, since he carefully charted his moves, but despite all caution he was killed in a stunt plane crash in 1965.

Mantz was a combination of a top stunt and racing pilot and a businessman who was pulled out of a fiscal slump by the invention of cinerama.

Mantz piloted the aerial camera ship which flew to the scenic spots of the world to film the views that virtually put the viewer in the pilot's seat.

Lest anyone think that a "Hollywood Pilot," is somewhat less than top caliber, Dwiggins emphasizes Mantz's role as an advisor to Amelia Earhart.

Despite recent debate about the fate of Miss Earhart, the evidence offered by Dwiggins is strong that she went down in the Pacific as reported.

But the action lies in Mantz flying through a hangar, Mantz in goggles and leather cap flying World War I planes for the cameras and Mantz racing across the country.

Homespun Tale

LAST OF THE SADDLE TRAMPS by Mesannie Wilkins and Mina Titus Sawyer, Prentice-Hall, 215 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Lee Cadwallader.

For those who would be attracted by a preface written by Art Linkletter, this book should provide good escape reading.

It's about a 63-year-old woman who traveled on horseback from Maine to California, trusting her fellow man and the will of God to aid her.

It's a "homespun" tale woven from Mesannie Wilkins' entries in her diaries and brought to a smooth finish by her freelance feature-writing friend, Mina Titus Sawyer.

The humor, adventure and style make this book a good selection for family reading aloud.

Marin Seminary Professor Authors His Eighth Book

PLANNING YOUR PREACHING by J. Winston Pearce, Broadman, 197 pages, $4.50. Reviewed by Dr. J. Lyn Elder.

In this book, the author's eighth, the what, why, and especially the how of planned preaching are discussed in helpful detail.

Dr. Pearce, professor of preaching at Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary, Strawberry, presents the Christian year, the calendar year, and the denominational calendar as principle bases on which to build sermon series. He also suggests thoughtfully prepared messages on evangelistic topics, church ordinances and topics related to the mid-week service.

Generously supplied with illustrative themes, topics, and titles, this is the most comprehensive book on its subject to date. The author is particularly helpful in suggesting specific, step-by-step procedures in sermon planning.

The closing emphasis of the volume is on public reading of scripture. The author makes an effective plea for more careful, balanced selection of Bible passages to be read in the worship period, and for more thoughful preparation for reading them aloud.

Not the least value in this book is the complete, comprehensive, and up-to-date bibliography on preaching included by Dr. Pearce.

A Call For A Religious Bridge Between The East And West

By DON KEOWN

MYSTICS & ZEN MASTERS by Fr. Thomas Merton, Farrar, Straus & Giroux, 303 pages, $5.50.

BLACK MARKET MEDICINE by Margaret Kreig, Prentice-Hall, 304 pages, $5.95.

The Catholic contemplative Fr. Thomas Merton would extend the present spirit of ecumenicalism well beyond the western religions to include those of the East as well.

The two cultures have much to offer each other, he feels. But there has been little exchange on a spiritual or mystical level, largely because a real foundation for dialogue and mutual understanding is lacking.

In his "Mystics and Zen Masters," a collection of essays written from the Abbey of Gethsemani in Kentucky in the 1960s, he points to the misinterpretations and general confusions that exist in western minds concerning Zen Buddhism, and places the blame at both ends of the religious spectrum.

Zen masters have shown little interest in putting their beliefs into words comprehensible to western minds. European-Americans, on the other hand, have demonstrated no real zeal for serious study of Zen accepting instead glib and superficial explanations of its aims and methods.

True Zen, says Father Merton, who has been deeply involved in the subject for years, is not at all the simple "quietistic cult of inner silence . . . achieved by complete withdrawal from ordinary life" that most westerners picture it to be. Instead, "Zen is a full awareness of the dynamism and spontaneity of life, and hence cannot be grasped by mere introspection, still less by dreaming. . ."

Buddhism is replete with what seems to westerners to be paradoxes and ambiguities that defy our accustomed approach of logical analysts, Father Merton warns. But those who persevere will find that Zen encompasses a very real spiritual life that can contribute greatly to mankind's enlightenment, he promises.

The book covers a number of other subjects including a survey of classic Chinese Confucian thinking, and some especially interesting discussions of the revolutionary and highly controversial tactics adopted by the first Jesuit missionaries in China, and the relationship of Buddhism to the contemporary world.

Not all the essays deal with Oriental religions and cultures. For instance, there are chapters on the English and Russian mystics, and on the American Shakers.

There are 16 pieces in all, and they demand a thoughtful approach and response from the reader. But Father Merton, as always, is well worth the effort.

IN ALL THE furor over the narcotics traffic, an apparently flourishing black market trade in counterfeited, adulturated, deficient non-narcotic drugs has gone almost unnoticed.

To call our attention to that dangerous situation, writer Margaret Kreig has authored "Black Market Medicine."

Her message is that the flow of bogus pharmaceuticals has reached the point where no one can be assured the medicine he is purchasing at the drug store is the one his physician prescribed. It might be useless. Worse yet, it might be lethal.

To collect her material, Miss Kreig worked in an undercover capacity with Food and Drug Administration agents charged with the safeguarding of non-addictive medicines. She describes the war being waged by these agents with inadequate manpower and weapons against the unregulated, underworld-dominated, unscrupulous producers of illicit drugs.

More officers, harsher laws, stricter enforcement and sterner penalties are old and easy answers to our social ills. But Miss Krieg makes a strong case for a stiffening attitude toward those who profit by foisting off contaminated and sub-standard medicines upon the sick, or who deal in dangerous stimulants and depressants for those without medical needs.

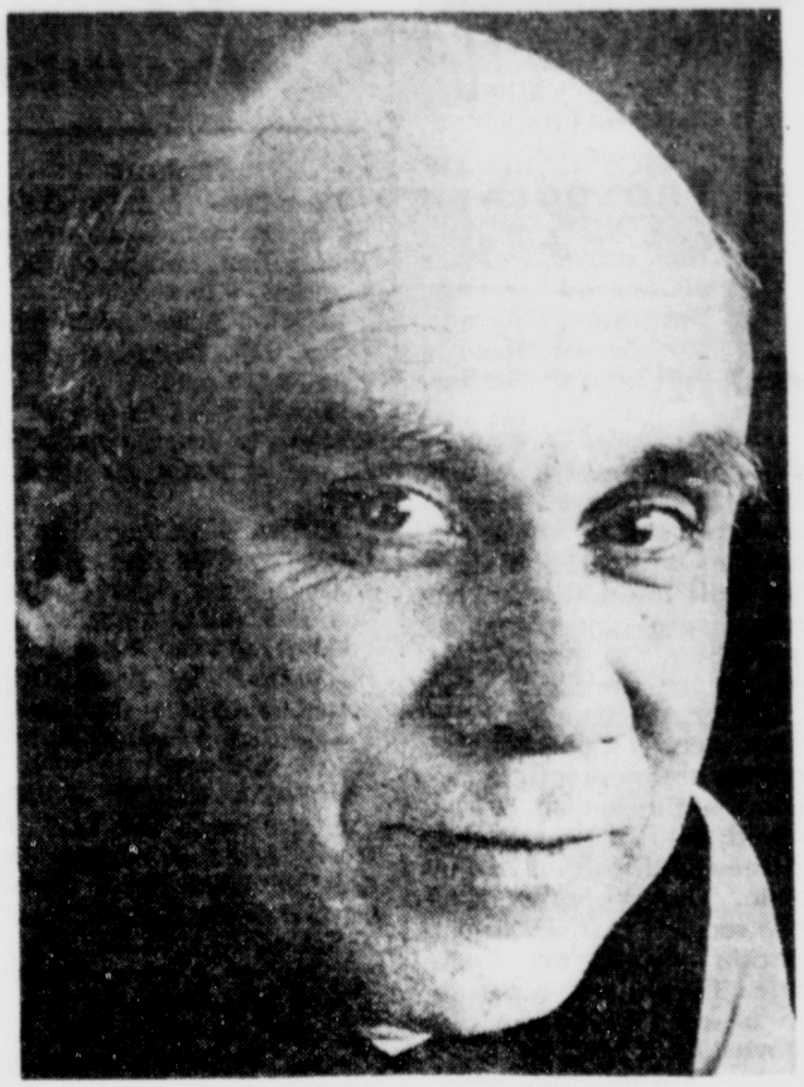
Unfortunately, like business in general, even the large pharmaceutical houses that are among the victims of this black marketing have not always been receptive to increased regulation — even such a simple reform as licensing of manufacturers. But Miss Kreig believes the public must demand action for its own protection. A first step in that direction was taken belatedly at the start of 1966 when a new law that created a Bureau of Drug Abuse Control took effect. Whether it, too, will be hamstrung by insufficient manpower and means remains to be seen.

The author poses, too, some problems for those who would lower drug costs for patients by substituting so-called generics for brand name products. It is not that brand name medicines cannot be counterfeited. It is being done, complete to stamped imprints on tablets and stolen or forged labels on bottles. But the incidence of phony drugs, she advises us, is far greater among the output of the smaller producers of the generics.

There is some discussion of LSD, but the writer has little really hard or new information on this timely subject.

The revelations gained from her own personal experiences and contacts with FDA agents are more meaningful. The matter in which she has put that information together is somewhat disorganized, and the impact of the book is further muted by the absence of names, a tactic made necessary, former FDA Commissioner George P. Larrick explains, by the "contemporary" nature of the events described.

Still, the picture she presents is a shocking one. It may serve to divert some of the public attention from narcotics toward what seems to be an equally serious threat to the national health. It is to be hoped the pharmaceutical industry and profession react responsibly, if proposals for further reforms of our drug laws do result. Miss Kreig has clearly demonstrated the need.



THE ROMAN CATHOLIC scholar, Fr. Thomas Merton, has authored another book, "Mystics and Zen Masters," a collection of his essays written in the 1960s.

THE NEW San Francisco firm of Drake Publications has launched a publishing program aimed at newly-arrived Californians with "Living in California Year Around," priced at $1.95 in softcover format.

Its San Francisco Bay Area edition contains 112 pages of information for newcomers covering such subjects as housing, schools, dress, recreation, taxes, living costs, laws, driving, employment, financing, shopping, etc.

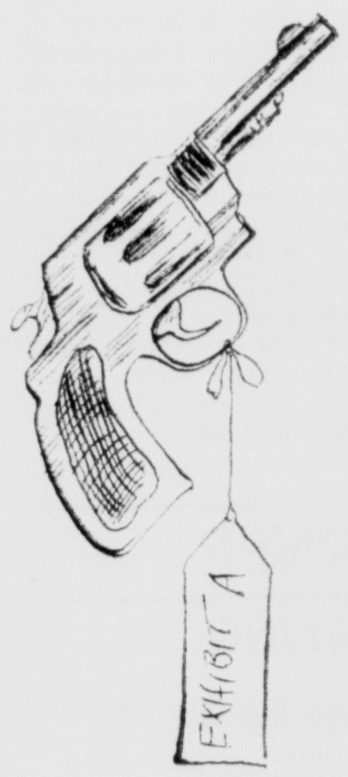
There's instruction in outdoor cookery, a list of the better known restaurants, advice for boat buyers and boat owners, suggestions for weekend trips and much more.

Illustrations, some in color, dress up what should be a most helpful manual for the immigrant Northern Californian anxious for a quick and enjoyable adjustment.

"THE WAR Years" edited by Nigel Nicholson is the July selection of the Book-of-the-Month Club.

Sleuths & Suspense

C/O AMERICAN EMBASSY by David C. Cooke, Dodd, Mead, 272 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.



Some years back, no doubt, this would have been considered an excellent spy thriller. But espionage fiction has come a long way since then, and now Cooke's story seems almost painfully predictable.

There's the usual exotic locale — India. The usual cast of characters — virile American agent, evil and cruel Communist foe, beautiful native girl, et al. The basic confrontation is the familiar one, dastardly reds vs. courageous democrats. There's sex and sadism, of course. And if you don't anticipate the wind-up, you've forgotten what run-of-the-mill intrigue tales were like before the writers began to show originality and imagination.

Real spy story addicts, no doubt, will find the book with all its faults, satisfying. But the more discerning will decide that, with good spy literature flooding the bookstores, they can do far better than this.

SOME NEW BOOKS FOR THE JUNIORS

Some new reading for the juniors:

One of the most beautiful books of recent publication for children of 10 years and older is "Waves, Tides, and Currents" by Elizabeth Clemons (Knopf, $3.75). It is illustrated with wonderful black and white photographs, maps and diagrams, and contains a glossary and index. All of the moods of the sea are set down for adventurous young readers. The style is simple and clear, and the text is set in large type.

Here in the home county of Hamilton Air Force Base, "NORAD" (Dodd, Mead, $3.50) by Marian Talmadge and Iris Gilmore should be of special interest to young readers. The two women have visited North American Air Defense Command facilities, particularly its Colorado headquarters, to put together the story of how this sector of the Air Force maintains its vigil against surprise enemy attack. Official Air Force photographs serve as illustrations.

Man's efforts to reach and explore the moon cannot help but excite in youngsters an interest in outer space. For those so stimulated, television producer Alfred Slote has written "The Moon in Fact and Fancy" (World, $3.95). As the title implies, Slote tells not only what is known about the moon and what is being done to know it better, but also the myths and legends that have grown up about it through the centuries in many cultures. Illustrations are by John Kaufmann.

The bear is well established as a special favorite of young animal-lovers. In "The Mighty Bear" (Random House, $1.95), Robert McClung, former curator of mammals and birds at the Bronx Zoo, tells just about all there is to be told about these mighty brutes. He covers all the different kinds of bears—their psychology, their habits, their histories. His informative text is accompanied by some excellent bear photographs. It is part of the modestly priced Gateway Books series.

THE CARE OF PHONOGRAPH RECORDS — With the warm weather season on its way, the proper care and storage of records will be quite important.

Modern records are made of a plastic vinyl type material. This material is comparatively soft. If left in the sun, they will get so soft that they will mold themselves around any object that is supporting the records. If records are stored flat and in a stack, the weight of the upper records will cause the grooves of the records at the bottom of the stack to be deformed; and of course, this will cause distortion of the music. The proper way to store records is in a vertical position without too much angle. To prevent warpage and to keep dust from the grooves, each record should be placed in its inner paper jacket, and this combination placed in its cardboard container. Never keep records in a closed car parked in the sun.

Dust can cause considerable damage to the record grooves. Unfortunately, the materials from which records are made have a tendency to become charged. This static charge pulls lint and dust into the grooves. If a record is played with dust in the grooves, the needle grinds this dust more firmly into the groove depressions. After several playings, this packed-in powdery dust causes the groove walls to distorte. The needle no longer follows the original contours and thus the music is noisy and badly distorted.

Wiping the top of a record with an ordinary cloth or a handkerchief merely creates more static charge and causes the dust to cling to the grooves even more strongly. There are many treated wiping cloths on the market that have a built-in discharging agent. These cloths help in wiping off the surface dust and discharging the record to some extent. They do not, however, get out the dust that is deep down into the grooves. A new approach for cleaning records is slim cylinder about 4 inches long covered with a nylon plush pile. This cylinder has a wick inside that keeps a static discharging agent on the plush pile. By simply holding this cylinder across the record grooves as it revolves on the turntable, the nylon pile digs into the record grooves, loosening out the dust and collecting it. This cleans and protects the mirror like finish of your records.

On The Stereo Scene With Sunier

By JOHN SUNIER

TIM BUCKLEY — Elektra EKS — 74004:

Another new 19-year-old folk-rocker who sounds just like all the rest — that was my suspicion before opening this new release.

A few seconds into the first track "I Can't See You," I had a different opinion entirely. This thin, intense young man has an absolutely gorgeous and beautifully controlled voice. I've heard nothing like it in the folk-rock movement so far.

His songs are , like his voice, controlled, tender and delicate. One must agree with the liner notes reference to Japanese watercolors.

The lyrics are Dylan-esque, but if Dylan only had a voice like this — wow!

Interesting background work again: harpsichord and celeste add to the crisp and scintillating sound of a string orchestra.

BEATLE COUNTRY with The Charles River Valley Boys — Elektra EKS — 74006:

The Beatles were and are tremendously influenced by American country and western music. Some of their tunes have in fact found a warm home on country and western radio stations all over the U.S.

Recorded in Nashville, country and western music center of the world, here are seven young men whom I doubt are hillbillies playing a dozen of the Beatles best tunes country-style. The results are barrels of fun, even for those, like this writer, who have never found a c. & w. exactly their "cuppa."

"Yellow Submarine" comes out "Yaller Submarine," of course. "And Your Bird Can Sing" fits the Nashville sound concept like a glove.

My only regret is that "The Word," one of the most country-fied tunes the British boys have penned, wasn't included too.

DA CAPO — LOVE — Elektra EKS 74005:

Da Capo means "a second time," and this is the second effort by this Los Angeles-based rock group. They would be way ahead if they just pretended they didn't have a first album.

This one is interesting if not a smashing success. The six short tracks on the first side are all faintly reminiscent of other groups, but still enjoyable.

On the second side, a wild excursion into everything from Bach to Indian music hangs together with difficulty under the title "Revelation."

What To Do When The Door Sticks

The Handyman's Page

There are two principal causes for a sticking door — swelling due to moisture absorption and loose hinges.

In most cases, the condition can be corrected without removing the door from the frame.

The first step is to determine what is causing the trouble. Examine the door hinges carefully to see whether any of the hinge screws have come loose. While you keep an eye on the hinges, open and close the door several times to see if you can detect any movement of the metal. If not, get a screwdriver and test each screw by seeing whether there is any play in it.

IF THE SCREW tightens even the least bit, it means that it was not holding the hinge securely.

It usually is the top hinge that has lost its grip, because that is the one which bears the most weight. Remove the loose screw. You now have a choice, depending on how quickly the repair must be made and whether you want it to be temporary or permanent.

For an easy solution, insert a wooden matchstick or toothpick, smeared generously with glue, into the hole, being sure that it thoroughly fills the opening. Reinsert the screw. If it tightens properly, you have a repair that will hold for the time being and, quite often, for a surprisingly long period.

FOR A MORE permanent job, fill the hole with plastic wood or wood putty. When it has hardened, redrive the screw into place. If the head of the old screw is worn or otherwise damaged, by all means use a new one.

In this latter method, the door should not be used until the wood element has hardened. Keep the door closed until you are ready to finish the job, as leaving it open may place an extra strain on the hinge, already weakened by the absence of one of the screws.

When a door has swollen because of excessive moisture or dampness, you must remove some of the wood in the area where the sticking is occurring — provided you cannot wait until dry conditions shrink the door naturally. This removal must be done carefully, otherwise you will take off too much wood and have a loose fitting door when weather conditions change.

TRY SANDING, block planing or scraping. When enough has been taken off to make the door operate, touch up the area with well-thinned paint or a sealer.

In fact, it might be well to apply a sealer to all edges and ends of the door, since those are the chief places where moisture enters. (You can get a booklet, "Wood Finishing in the Home," by sending 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, Post Office Box 954, Jamaica, N.Y. 11431.

If it is possible to wait until dry weather shrinks the door so that it fits properly, do so. When that occurs, prevent future trouble by refinishing the door — again paying particular attention to the ends and edges.

The Right Varnish

Use a "hand-rubbed" varnish for non-gloss finish on fine western wood paneling and cabinetwork. It brushes on, requires no buffing.

EARLY AMERICAN furniture has a beauty all its own. You can capture much of that charm in your own home-built pieces—for instance this highboy. Send $1 to Independent-Journal, Post Office Box 215, Briarcliff Manor, N.Y., 10510, and ask for Easi-Bild Book No. 662 —"How to Build a Colonial Tavern Bar Cabinet." You'll have yourself both a wall cabinet and a mobile bar that possesses the grace of a prized heirloom.

Aromatic Herbs Are Pleasure To Smell And Eat

Many Are Worth The Growing Just For The Sniffing Alone

Garden Page

The pleasures of an herb garden lie not only in the culinary results of your effort, but also in pinching and sniffing them every time you pass through the garden.

Many herbs are worth planting for this alone.

A carpet of woolly thyme on or about stepping stones or encroaching on a garden path is something you can savor every time you crush it slightly underfoot. A shrub of rosemary near the back entrance is available for your kitchen needs and also for your pinching pleasure.

LIKEWISE A planting of sage, which can transport one over distance and time to a memory of the desert and its wonderful fragrances.

There is one herb which can be planted, also, not for our pleasure but purely to indulge the family cat. This would be Nepeta or catnip, a dense gray cover for open ground, attractive to look at and so attractive to cats that they bed down and luxuriate in its mint-like fragrance.

The growing of herbs is an ancient tradition that dropped from vogue during the years preceding World War II when, perhaps because of renewed interest in home vegetable gardening, it started a comeback.

HAPPILY, TODAY it is enjoying a continued upsurge in popularity as are all things culinary. Interest in "Haut Cuisine" carries with it a natural interest in growing fresh herbs.

If you check with a local nurseryman you will find a good number of these aromatic standbys being offered as well started plants. As recently as a decade or two back this would have been highly unusual.

You might then find thyme or rosemary in fair supply but you could buy plants of most others only from nursery specialists and from those general nurserymen who had the herb bug themselves. We'd like to suggest that times have changed for the better in some ways.

Choose a place near the kitchen, if you can for herbs. Then sow seeds and/or set out plants from the local nursery. Include, in addition to the above, tarragon, basil, marjoram, chives, mint, parsley, savory, dill — well, you get the point. The more the merrier.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

A checklist for gardeners of Marin for the coming week:

✓ Plant a hedge this month. Your nurseryman can suggest the best hedging material for your particular needs.

✓ The happiest roses are the most pampered roses. They are most beautiful when watered, fed and sprayed regularly.

✓ Hibiscus likes a rich root run — leaf mold or peat moss are both helpful — and plenty of food and water.

✓ Plant dwarf dahlias now for summer-long bloom.

✓ Make another planting of gladiolus for mid-summer bloom.

The Western Still Has Its Followers

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Even in the brave new world of pop, op, happenings and Marshall McLuhan, the horse opera holds its major place in network television programming — as securely as it did in movies half a century ago.

Depending on how one defines a Western — and it's not so easy nowadays with all the psychological and tongue-in-cheek refinements — there are still roughly 14 hours of horse operas per week scheduled for the three television networks in the coming season.

IN ADDITION to such returning Western series as "Gunsmoke," "Bonanza," "The Virginian," "The Big Valley," "Daniel Boone" and "Iron Horse," there are more than a half dozen new regularly scheduled shoot-'em-ups.

For example, over at CBS-TV there is "Dundee and the Culhane," which will star John Mills as a cunning lawyer whose young attorney sidekick is quick with a gun. And the same network will offer "Cimmaron Strip," a 90-minute entry featuring Stuart Whitman as a marshal.

Over at NBC-TV, meanwhile, the same producer who has guided "Bonanza" to its spectacular ratings success over the years, David Dortort, has come up with another oater, "The High Chaparral." And the network has scheduled this new series right after "Bonanza" on Sunday nights, which will mean two straight hours of Westerns.

ABC-TV HAS A fistful of new Western series, mainly because its large number of failures annually among regular weekly programs provides the space — and the drive for surefire stuff in the ratings.

We will have, for example, from ABC-TV, "The Legend of Custer," based on the general who had the unfortunate last stand at the hands of the Indians. We will also have a series called "Hondo," based, at least in title, on the old John Wayne horse opera, but without John Wayne, which makes a difference.

Furthermore, we will get from ABC-TV "The Guns of Will Sonnett," in which good old Walter Brennan will mount up again and spend the season searching "for the truth in the legend of his lawless son."

IT IS CONCEIVABLE that the fiction of a single pure hero on horseback has, in some ways, more romantic appeal than ever in this increasingly mechanized age, at least to persons middle-aged and over who feel the squeeze of mechanization more severely than less inhibited youngsters.

To the younger generation, it is more than conceivable that the old romantic hero on a horse is very near to pure camp. Too bad. Gary Cooper really was better company than Peter O'Toole.

Dean Of TV Actors Handles Two Series

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Leo G. Carroll at 75 is the oldest regular star in television, but not so ancient that he doesn't appear in two series simultaneously—which is more than can be said of his younger colleagues.

As Mr. Waverly, the mastermind behind "The Man From U.N.C.L.E." and "The Girl From U.N.C.L.E.," Carroll works five days a week.

BORN IN THE midlands of England, and still a British subject, Carroll and his wife Nancy have been married 40 years. They live in a duplex high in the Hollywood Hills.

Originally it was one large home with six bedrooms which Carroll had rebuilt 25 years ago. It sits on an acre of garden that has seen better days—when Carroll could devote more time to it.

Mrs. Carroll decorated the house long ago in Edwardian style. Most of the furniture was brought here from England, and very little has been changed the last decade or so. Her husband is fond of saying, "We're comfortable but not spectacular."

NEITHER THE actor nor his wife is interested in keeping up with the modern conception of gracious living.

The producers of the NBC-TV series take into account Carroll's age, giving him a minimum physical action in the shows.

"I don't do very much in the shows," he admits. "My principal job is to explain to the boys and girls (Robert Vaughn, David McCallum, Stephanie Power and Noel Harrison) that THRUSH is up to and what our position is. Then I punch a few buttons and send them off on their derring-do. The youngsters do most of the work."

STILL, CARROLL puts in a strenuous work week.

He arises at about 5:30 a.m. to report to MGM studios by 7:30 after a half hour drive across the busy city. Carroll is somewhat sentimental about Metro; it was his first studio when he came to Hollywood in 1934.

On long days the old gentleman stays on the job until 7 p.m. Sometimes he's in front of the cameras most of the day with very little letup.

More frequently there are intervals that allow him to take naps in his dressing room.

MRS. CARROLL loathes cooking, and her husband who still is beloved as the longtime star of the "Topper" television series is not very good in the kitchen.

"My wife has difficulty with her sight, so we don't entertain often and when we do go out it is to a restaurant," he said. "But we manage to fend for ourselves and the two of us somehow remain nourished."

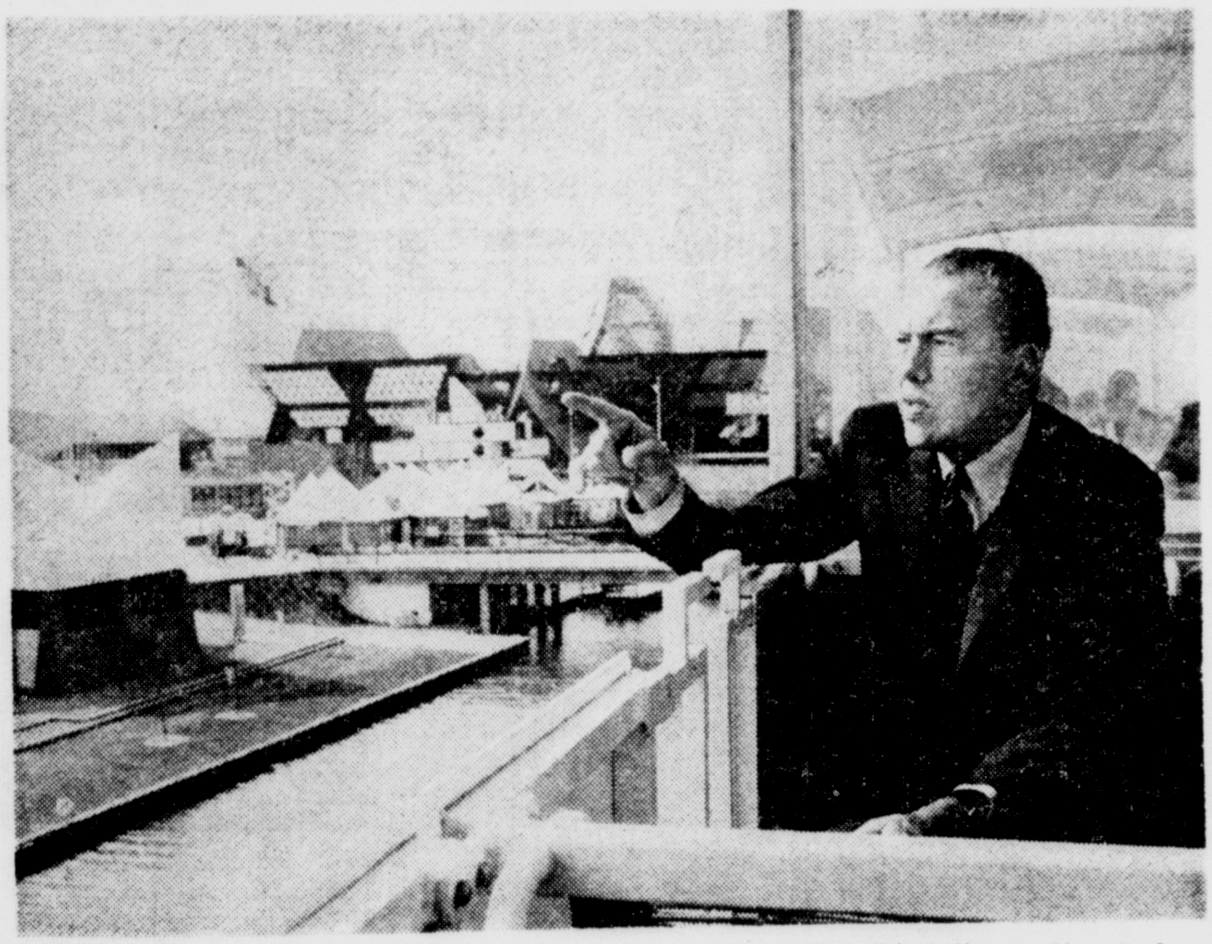
There is no live-in help in the house, but a cleaning woman comes by to keep the house sparkling.

THE CARROLLS have no pets; "I leave all the animal collecting to my friend James Mason."

They have a son, William, who is in his 30s and lives in the San Fernando Valley. Bill is an engineer and has presented his father with three grandchildren.

The two families get together on holidays and occasionally on weekends. But usually Saturday and Sunday are devoted to rest and trimming roses.

Carroll reflects: "I've got to an age where I like to take leisure. Age has its compensations. You can sit back and enjoy your philosophies."



ED SULLIVAN will take his audience on a tour of Canada's World's Fair when he originates "The Ed Sullivan Show" from Montreal on Sunday at 8 p.m. on Channels 5 and 10.

In The Public Interest

Some time back on this program I made some predictions as to what life will be like in the year 2000. A time that many of us living today will know.

Shortly after that, I was reading my Sunday paper and ran across this interesting item in This Week Magazine, written by one of the government's leading scientists, Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg, Nobel Prize winner and Chairman of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission:

He said that the one prediction that can safely be made about the future is that the rapid acceleration of scientific progress, the scientific revolution of the past few decades, will continue. The Third American Revolution—the scientific revolution—follows in the spirit of the revolution that gave us our freedom and the industrial revolution that gave us our strength.

What does the scientific revolution have in store for us? Looking into the future—the near future—here are some of the advances that can be forseen:

Travel to distant parts of the world will be possible in an hour or two. Travelers will embark on ultra-speed jets or swift rocket transport. All-weather air travel will be routine because man will find a way to control local enviornmental conditions and to eliminate such present-day airport menaces as fog. Moon-travel will, of course, be commonplace by 1992 and voyages to satellites and nearby planets will be possible.

All of us will be able to wear Dick Tracy-type wrist watch radios which will keep us in contact with people everywhere. We'll be able to sit at home and "dial" the library for any book we want and, using a closed circuit remote control television system, "read" the book at home.

Electronic computer systems will keep tabs on our household gadgets . . . our budgets, help us plan menus, figure out our income taxes, remind us of appointments, and even aid in reaching family policy decisions. Large computers able to translate automatically will crack the world's language barriers.

Ways to farm and mine the seas will increase the abundance of man's food and material goods.

Enormous progress will be made in the prevention and control of illnesses, the treatment of the lame, the deaf, and the blind, in the improvement and maintenance of mental health and the expansion of the span of useful life. Pharmaceuticals which change and maintain human personality at any desired level may be part of every day life in a few years.

Nuclear power will long since have become commonplace in providing heat and power for homes and industry. Peaceful uses of nuclear explosions may include the deepening of too shallow straits and the opening up of mountain passes.

It seems that the fortunes of society, like the fortunes of a creative and busy man, must reach a time of great and satisfying abundance. We are now entering into that phase of human achievement and reward.

No matter how great the times become each of us must choose between just going along for the ride or contributing as best we can in the work it's been given us to do. If we'll follow the latter course, we'll feel we're really a part of it all.
